Asian-Arab Nations Appeal To China

Nation's Chief, Attlee Discuss Korea Moves

Canvass Question Of Steps In Three Eventualities, Including Evacuation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee talked today of "steps to be taken" in Korea under any set of circumstances including, it was reported, the grim possibility that a Dunkerque-type evacuation may eventually be necessary.

Officials emphasized that no such evacuation has been decided upon. They said the American and British leaders were canvassing the question of what their course should be in case of any of three eventualities occurred:

1. The advancing Red Chinese hordes, for some reason, should voluntarily stop their forward progress.

2 Gen. MacArthur's forces should be able to hold a defense line in Korea, about which there is no certainty.

3 The U. N. forces should find themselves unable to keep any foothold at all in Korea.

There were no further details, although officials said the President and Prime Minister were determined to support U. N. action in Korea to the limit.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley acknowledged tonight that, in secret testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today, he had touched on the possibility of evacuating hard-pressed U. N. troops from the extreme northeast sector of Korea.

However, Bradley said tonight "any reference I made to evacuation was in connection with the hard-pressed troops in the extreme northeast sector which are now moving back to a concentration in a beachhead."

"Any reports other than this are misleading and merely speculation," Bradley added.

Senators who heard Bradley said they had received a somewhat more optimistic picture from him today than had been drawn for them at previous military briefings on the Korean situation.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross, who died suddenly soon after he talked with reporters, denied London reports that the President and the British leader agreed yesterday that United Nations forces would re-invade Korea if they were driven out by Chinese Communists.

"It is not true," Ross told newsmen. "That did not come up at the conference. There were no decisions reached yesterday."

A reporter asked if it was still intended that American troops and their Allies should hold in Korea.

"No comment," Ross replied. He said he could not discuss the military situation in Korea.

Mr. Truman himself underscored the gravity of the situation when he took time out from his talks with Attlee to tell a Mid-Century White House Conference on Children and Youth:

"The serious crisis in world affairs overshadows all that we do. Our thoughts and prayers are with our young men who are fighting in Korea. They are engaged in a battle against tremendous odds."

GETS NEW TRIAL—The U. S. Court of Appeals yesterday agreed that Judith Coplon (above) plotted to spy for Russia but ruled her arrest without a warrant was illegal and ordered a new trial.

Judith Coplon's Arrest Illegal, Ordered Retried

But Appeals Court Agrees She's Guilty

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—A federal appeals court today agreed that Judith Coplon plotted to spy for Russia but nevertheless reversed her conviction and ordered a new trial.

The United States Court of Appeals unanimously ruled that Miss Coplon's arrest by FBI agents without a warrant was illegal. The court's opinion added:

"The conviction must be reversed but we will not dismiss the indictment, for the guilt is plain x x x."

The FBI argued that her arrest March 5, 1949, without a warrant was vital lest she try to flee the country.

May Be More Evidence

"It is possible on another trial there may be more evidence of the likelihood of escape," the appeals court said, indicating the FBI had not backed up its charge as fully as it should have.

Also, the court said, secret wire taps could be made public and confidential FBI informants could be identified to bolster the claim that Miss Coplon was prepared to flee when arrested.

The decision gives the 29-year-old former government girl a fresh chance at freedom from a 15-year prison sentence imposed on her in New York City last March 9.

D. C. Sentence Unaffected

But is does not affect a 40 months to 10 year sentence hanging over her in Washington on a separate count. She was convicted there of stealing government secrets from her Justice Department office. She is appealing that conviction, too.

Miss Coplon, dark-haired, attractive and well-educated, was depicted by the government during her trial here as a furtive agent of the Soviet, a cold-war accomplice of the enemies of her native land.

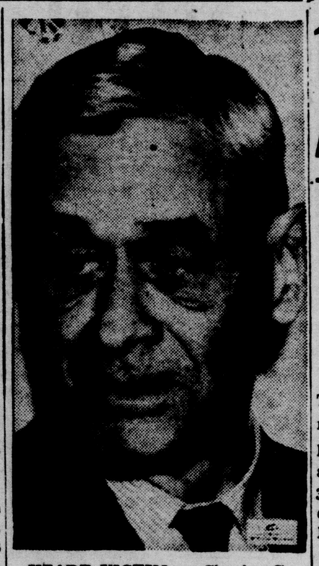

Convicted with her in New York was Valentin A. Gubitchev, 33, a married Soviet engineer and at that time a United Nations employe.

Gubitchev chose to be deported rather than serve a 15-year prison sentence when give a choice by this government.

U. N. "Mediation Room"

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 5 (AP)—The U. N., besieged by crisis, has opened a "meditation room" here.

Dimly-lighted and somberly decorated, it was opened yesterday without announcement as a headquarters haven for delegates, secretariat employes, and public visitors who wish seclusion in which to ruminate on the current perils to peace.

HEART VICTIM — Charles G. Ross (above), press secretary to President Truman, died in his White House office early last night shortly after he reported on the second Truman-Attlee meeting at a news conference.

Charles G. Ross, Truman's Press Secretary, Dies

Succumbs In Office After Heart Attack

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP) — Charles G. Ross, scholarly journalist and press secretary to President Truman, died unexpectedly at his desk in the White House late today. He was 65.

Ross was an old school mate of the President and Mrs. Truman, with whom he had "grown up" in Independence, Mo. He enjoyed an affectionate and intimate relationship with the presidential family. And he enjoyed as well the affection of newspapermen in Washington, his native Missouri and throughout the country.

Won Pulitzer Prize

He established a wide reputation as a newspaperman during his long career on the St. Louis Post Dispatch. He won a Pulitzer prize in 1931—in the midst of the depression—for an article on "The Country's Plight—What Can Be Done About It?"

Death was attributed to a heart attack. He was stricken at his desk while he was talking with his secretary, Miss Myrtle Bergheim, and television men.

A long-time reporter himself, Ross died just after he had finished a stint in the role he liked best—that of a reporter. He had given newspapermen a graphic account, down to minute details, of the Truman-Attlee meeting.

The television men were waiting to make a recording of a statement Ross had given the reporters.

Jokes With Secretary

Miss Bergheim, with whom the Press Secretary liked to joke, said, "Oh, they don't want your mumbling."

She said Ross smiled and replied: "I don't mumble. I speak very clearly."

Then, lighting a cigaret, he slumped over in his chair.

Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, presidential physician, was summoned immediately.

"He was gone before I got there," Graham told reporters. "He had had these heart attacks before. He had been having them off and on for the last three years—the last one about two months ago."

Hattie McDaniel, Negro Actress, Wins Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5 (AP)—Hattie McDaniel obtained a divorce decree today on testimony that her husband left her after a great deal of "arguing and fussing."

The plump negro character actress testified that she and Larry Williams, an interior decorator, were married in Yuma, Ariz., June 11, 1949 and separated the following Oct. 22.

Miss McDaniel broke down in tears when she testified that her husband tried to create dissension among the cast of her radio show and otherwise interfered with her work.

Ingrid Expects Pia

ROME, Dec. 5 (AP)—A spokesman for Ingrid Bergman said tonight her daughter, Pia, is expected to come to Europe next summer. The Swedish actress, wife of Director Roberto Rossellini, has expressed the hope that Pia will be able to meet her half-brother, 10-months-old Roberto Rossellini, Jr.

Ford And General Motors Announce Car Price Hikes

DETROIT, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company tonight announced an increase in car prices, the second major auto manufacturer to announce such a hike today.

Earlier, General Motors said its 1951 models would cost more than current models.

As with GM, Ford blamed the increase on increased cost of materials.

In a statement, Ford said:

"What we have to pay for the supplies, materials, labor and other costs that go into our passenger cars has increased since June of 1950 at the rate of 103 million dollars a year. Such increases have thus far been absorbed by the company. There has been no general increase in the prices of our passenger cars since August, 1948.

"The cost rise has been rapid during the past 60 days. Furthermore, shortages of materials have forced us substantially to reduce production schedules. Part of our increase in costs must now, therefore, be reflected in our prices."

The price increase applies to Ford, Mercury and Lincoln cars.

The boost ranges from $87.50 on its lowest priced Ford to $165 on its highest priced Lincoln.

13 Countries Ask Reds Not To Cross 38th

Korean Issue Sent To U. N. Assembly

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 5 (AP) — Thirteen Asian and Middle Eastern members of the United Nations appealed tonight to Communist China and North Korea not to cross the 38th parallel, and to give time to consider ways of settling the Far Eastern crisis.

The appeal was immediately transmitted to Wu Hsiu-Chuan, Communist China's representative now in New York, with a request that he relay it immediately to Peiping.

The countries making the appeal were India, the Philippines, Burma, Pakistan, Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Yemen, Indonesia and Afghanistan.

Text Of Appeal

The text of the appeal:

"We, on behalf of the delegation (of the 11 countries) to the United Nations, consider it our duty at this critical hour earnestly to appeal to the North Korean authorities and the Central People's Government of the People's Republic of China immediately to declare that it is not their intention that any forces under their control should cross to the south of the 38th parallel.

"Such a declaration will give time for considering what further steps are necessary to resolve the conflict in the Far East thus helping to avert another world war."

The Asian countries acted as Canada's Lester B. Pearson suggested a cease fire, Secretary General Trygve Lie called for all out efforts to settle the crisis, and the steering committee of the U. N. sent the issue to the full assembly.

Sid Benegal N. Rau of India led the move among the Asian countries to try to stop the fighting. He was joined from the start by Carlos P. Romulo, foreign minister of the Philippines, and Sir Zafrullah Khan, foreign minister of Pakistan.

The top delegates of the Asian countries met today from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m., in Rau's Fifth Avenue apartment and discussed what to do. They adjourned during the afternoon to consult their governments and went back into consultation at 6 p. m. The appeal was finally whipped into shape at 8 p. m. and was urgently transmitted to Wu.

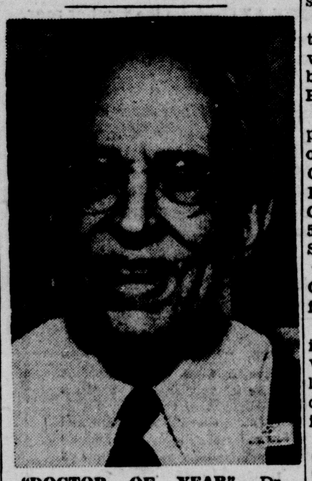

Soviet Blast Ignored

Despite the fact that two of the countries did not have instructions, the others decided the situation was so urgent they must make the appeal right away.

Pearson, Canada's external affairs minister, speaking in a Canadian broadcast shortly after the steering committee sent the assembly the case of Communist aggression in Korea, said the talks should begin if and when the military situation in Korea was stabilized.

The steering committee disregarded a loud Russian blast against the United States and heeded instead an Australian warning that "there is a state of war going on."

The committee voted 10 to 2 to recommend that the Assembly consider the new business. An all-day—or maybe longer—debate is expected tomorrow, for Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky indicated today he will fight the case at every turn.

"DOCTOR OF YEAR"—Dr. Dean Sherwood Luce, 74, grins in his office at Canton, Mass., shortly after he learned that he had been chosen "Family Doctor of the Year" by the American Medical Association. Dr. Luce was making his usual daily hospital rounds yesterday and did not learn of his choice by the AMA's house of delegates until he returned to his office.

Chinese Communist Convoy In Tibet

This picture was distributed yesterday by Eastfoto, New York picture agency, which said it received it from the China Photo Service in Communist-controlled Peiping with a caption describing the scene as "lorries transporting soldiers and supplies of the Chinese People's Liberation Army toward the front lines in Tibet." The Peiping caption reported the Chinese columns commenced their drive into Tibet Oct. 7.

House OKs Profit Tax

Truman Crisis Tactics Irk Taft

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP) — Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) demanded today that President Truman give his fellow citizens "more information" on what the nation faces both in Asia and Europe.

The policy leader of the Senate Republicans proposed that Mr. Truman report to the people after he finishes his current talks with British Prime Minister Attlee.

Taft complained that the Republican lawmakers are not now being consulted in advance of administration decisions, but are merely being filled in on developments after they occur.

He said the President and other administration leaders ought to "state what the problems are" so the public will have a sound basis for decisions.

Taft spoke out after an hour-long meeting of the Republican Policy Committee which he heads.

Taft said the GOP Policy Committee probably would meet "every two or three days while things are so hot."

One of his Republican colleagues, Sen. Wiley of Wisconsin, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, was invited to sit in a Truman-Attlee luncheon conference today on the yacht Williamsburg. Sen. Connally, Democrat chairman of the Foreign Relations group, also was invited, as were House Speaker Rayburn, Sen. George (D-Ga), and Reps. Eaton (R-NJ) and Richards (D-SC) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

East Expecting Snow, Cold Wave

[By The Associated Press]

A cold wave, preceded by snow and strong winds, knifed deep into the plains states and South Tuesday and began fanning out toward the storm-harried eastern states.

As the storm picked up intensity, the Weather Bureau issued cold wave and snow warnings for a broad area from Iowa to Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Skidding temperatures in the upper Ohio valley checked the threat of serious floods along the swollen Ohio river, at least momentarily. Flood danger also diminished in California and all but 700 of the 5,000 who fled from their homes Sunday were able to return.

But the threat of new snow in the Ohio river valley will keep flood fears alive.

The cold wave is expected to push into Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia and Western Maryland Wednesday night and Thursday. Snow from two to six inches is forecast for these states.

Sister Kenny Will Return To Australia

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 5 (AP) — Sister Elizabeth Kenny, the woman who came to Minneapolis 10 years ago with a new treatment for polio sufferers, said goodbye to the city today.

She is going back to her native Australia to open up new polio clinics.

Seen Bringing In 4.6 Billion In '51

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP) — The House tonight passed an "excess profits" tax estimated to bring in $4,600,000,000 from corporations in 1951.

The levy was approved and sent to the Senate, 378 to 20. There Sen. George (D-Ga), chairman of the tax-writing Finance Committee told reporters that he expects the measure to reach the White House for signature in some form before New Year's.

As approved by the House, the levy would be retroactive to last July 1 — a few days after the U. S. got into the Korean war.

GOP Substitute Defeated

During the first 12 months of its operation it is expected to fall short of raising the full $4,000,000,000 asked by President Truman from a tax on "excess" corporate profits. But experts of the House Ways and Means Committee, which framed the measure, estimated it would produce $4,600,000,000 in calendar 1951 on the basis of increased corporate earnings expected then.

Passage came soon after a substitute tax bill backed by Republican policy leaders was defeated, 252 to 145. Only one Democrat, Rep. Kennedy of Massachusetts, voted for the Republican-favored proposal to shelve the winning bill for the substitute.

75% Tax On Excess

The approved measure provides a 75 per cent tax on profits in excess of what is called normal. It defines normal profits as 85 per cent of average profits for the best three years in the four-year period 1946-1949. Profits thus defined as normal would be taxable at the present top corporation income levy of 45 per cent.

The substitute backed by Republican policy leaders proposed an increase of 45 to 50 per cent in the tax on normal profits, which it defined as 100 per cent of the 1946-1949 average. It proposed also a 75 per cent tax on profits in excess of the average for those years.

In predicting that the tax bill will go to the White House in some form before New Year's, Sen. George told reporters he expects his committee to make some changes in it.

Montgomery Divorced

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Dec. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Betty Montgomery today obtained a divorce from Actor-Television Producer Robert Montgomery, 46.

The decree gave Mrs. Montgomery custody of their two children, Elizabeth, 17, and Robert, 14. She charged mental cruelty.

Rent Curb Bill Timetable Upset

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The administration's timetable for House consideration of a 90-day extension of rent controls was upset today by the House Rules Committee.

It voted 6 to 5 against clearing the legislation to the House for debate. Democratic leaders had intended to take it up tomorrow. Earlier in the day, the House Banking Committee had recommended passage of the measure by a 17 to 3 vote.

The bill would extend until March 31 the automatic decontrol provision of the present law. Unless Congress grants an extension, rent controls expire Dec. 31 except in communities which have voted affirmatively to retain them until next June 30.

The Senate, meanwhile, debated a 60-day extension proposal. The vote there is set for Thursday.

The House Rules Committee has general command of routing bills approved by legislative committees to the floor for debate.

In related developments affecting government controls:

1. The Senate Banking Committee recommended confirmation of Michael V. DiSalle as price administrator.

2. DiSalle, at present the mayor of Toledo, Ohio, assured the committee he would do everything he could to get the program moving as quickly as possible.

SOUTH BEAVER DAM, Wis., Dec. 5 (AP)—A special express train loaded with Christmas trees and holly wreaths smashed into an auto at a crossing here today, killing four children coming home from school.

The victims, who were sitting in the back seat of the auto when the Northwestern road train sheared it in half, where identified as:

Joan Gardinier, 4, and Richard Gardinier, 12, of Route 3, Beaver Dam, and Betty Gunther, 9, and Eunice Gunther, 14, children of Mr. and Mrs. George Gunther, also of Route Three, Beaver Dam.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Senate today confirmed the nomination of Dr. Alan Valentine of New York as economic stabilization administrator. There was no opposition.

Korea Is No Place To Use A-Bomb, Gen. Collins Says

SEOUL, Korea, Wednesday, Dec. 6 (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U. S. Army chief of staff, said today he could see no worthwhile tactical use of the atom bomb in Korea.

Collins refused to amplify his statement.

The General declined comment on the military situation in Korea other than to say "an entirely new situation has developed" since the Chinese Communists entered the war.

The chief of staff made a flying inspection yesterday of the northwestern front where the U. S. Eighth Army was in retreat.

Collins was accompanied to today's news conference by Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander of the Eighth army.

Correspondents asked what effect it would have on the American Army if the Eighth Army's four American combat divisions were enveloped by the Chinese.

Collins replied, "I think the Eighth Army is capable of taking care of itself."

8th Army Sets Up Line South Of Pyongyang

No Retreat Yet For 30,000 GIs In Trap

TOKYO, Wednesday, Dec. 6 (AP)—The U. S. Eighth Army, still a fighting force, today awaited the vanguards of a 1,000,000-man Chinese Communist army from a new defense line in Northwest Korea.

It had halted its retreat from Pyongyang toward the 38th parallel. But there was no retreat yet for 30,000 U. S. troops trapped in Northeast Korea where appearance of Red forces close to the coast increased the peril.

A tempered note of optimism for the northwestern situation was voiced by Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U. S. Army Chief of Staff.

"I think the Eighth Army is capable of taking care of itself," he said after a flying front line inspection Tuesday.

Precisely where the Eighth Army has set up its new lines was a carefully guarded military secret.

AP Correspondent Don Huth said he saw large United Nations convoys move south of the 38th parallel which is 70 miles south of Pyongyang.

Chinese In Pyongyang

A possible suggestion that it was a defense line in depth came in reports from the field. These told of North Korean guerrillas being driven out of positions along commanding ridges and hills north of the 38th. South Koreans also were reported to have built other defense positions south of the parallel.

In that area, the main roads and railroad are commanded by rough, hutting hills suitable for artillery and other defensive works.

Already the Chinese were in abandoned Pyongyang where Allied air attacks dealt them deadly blows. Approximately 2,500 Reds were killed by air action there Tuesday, U. S. Fifth Air Force headquarters reported.

But patrols moving out from the new Eighth Army defense line reported few contacts beyond minor skirmishes.

In Washington, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the U .S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, was reported to have told senators that Allied forces had reached positions making possible a giant evacuation of Korea by sea—if necessary. Later, however, he said his talks with the senators on that subject had reference solely to Northeast Korea.

Port-To-Port Highway Cut

A Defense Department spokesman said that on the northeast front the Chinese Reds pushed a spearhead eastward and cut the main highway between the two major east coast ports of Hungnam and Wonsan.

Wonsan is headquarters of the U. S. Tenth Corps. Hungnam, port for the industrial city of Hamhung, is about 50 air miles north of Wonsan. It serves as the supply center for chopped up segments of the U. S. First Marine Division and Seventh Infantry Division, making a fighting withdrawal some 50 miles to the northwest.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters reported three more Chinese Red divisions were ready to reinforce the seven divisions already smashing through Korea's frigid northeast icebox.

This swelled the total number of Chinese Reds in the northeast to about 100,000 men.

MacArthur's war summary spoke omniously of a "rising tempo" of road and rail movements behind Chinese lines in Korea. U. S. planes attacked a 30-mile long convoy north of Changjin reservoir in the northeast while farther north they hit a large body of troops hauling guns and supplies.

Proximity-Fuse Bombs Dropped On Enemy Troops

ON THE NORTHEAST KOREAN FRONT, Dec. 5 (AP)—Marine Corsair planes have used the deadly proximity-fuse bombs for the first time in the Korean war with "outstanding" results, it was disclosed today.

A spokesman for the First Marine Air Wing said the proximity fuse detonating the bomb before it hits the ground, was particularly effective against enemy troops in foxholes.

Couple Found Shot To Death In Auto

DARNESTOWN, Md., Dec. 5 (AP) — Police tonight reported that a man and woman had been found shot to death in an automobile on Route 28, near here.

The first reports were that the car bore Washington state license tags.

Story Of Russian Intrigue To Free Trotsky's Assassin Is Made Public

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A story of persistent Russian intrigue to free the assassin of Leon Trotsky, and how U. S. agents defeated the plot, was made public by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

The account was contained in a committee report summing up an investigation of the part American Communists played in the assassination of Premier Stalin's arch rival in Mexico City in 1940.

Much of the story of plotting and intrigue was made public last month by Louis Budenz, former managing editor of the Communist Daily Worker who abandoned Communism and is now a faculty member at Fordham University.

Budenz said in an affidavit he was assigned by the Communist Party in December, 1936, to aid Russian agents in uncovering alleged Trotskyite plots against Stalin.

Budenz said in his sworn account that one of the principal directing brains of the plot was Dr. Gregory Rabinowitz, or Rabinowitch, described as head of the Russian Red Cross in the United States.

The committee detailed a story of efforts of American Communists, under the direction of Soviet secret NKVD agents, to free the assassin Frank Jacson from imprisonment in Mexico. This involved the familiar apparatus of political infiltration, mail drops, and invisible inks.

Because of the "alertness of U. S. government intelligence agencies" the attempt never materialized, the committee said.

Budenz' sworn statement related that Russian agents utilized romance to "plant" Jacson with Trotsky.

This was indirectly brought off in part, it was stated, by a Ruby Weil, identified by Budenz as an American Communist Party worker and secret Russian agent.

"However, in analyzing the intelligence information in the possession of the committee, and the testimony of the witnesses, this case demonstrates that the Soviet government was directly interested in the assassination of Leon Trotsky and the subsequent attempt to release his killer from prison."

Budenz presented a picture of "Soviet supervision" of infiltration, by American Communists, of the Trotsky political movement which led later to Trotsky placing his trust in Jacson.

Trotsky was murdered in his home near Mexico City by someone wielding a mountain axe. As his killer, authorities arrested a man carrying a fraudulent Canadian passport in the name of Frank Jacson.

Budenz identified the killer also as a Jacques Monard, but police say his true identity has never been established. He was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment, and is still behind bars.

Behind closed doors, the committee head testimony from Ruby Weil and two other women who refused to tell newsmen their names. Committee members withheld comment.

In his account of Miss Weil's role, Budenz declared:

"In addition to her knowledge of infiltration methods, Miss Weil had been on very friendly terms with Hilda Ageloff, sister of Leon Trotsky's secretary, Ruth Ageloff.

According to Budenz, Miss Weil was introduced to Jacson, and in turn introduced him to Hilda Ageloff. A "whirlwind courtship" at once developed.

"Representing himself to be a Jacques Monard, a descendant of Belgian counts, he won Miss Ageloff's favor and she smuggled him into the Trotsky household," Budenz continued.

But after the Trotsky assassination in 1940, Budenz went on, Miss Weil came to him in "great distress to tell me of her part in this act."

The committee said there were others, apparently like Miss Weil, who played an unwitting part in the Russian-engineered plot—"not all of them knowing the exact purpose of the conspiratorial acts performed by them."

Curbs On Copper

A wide segment of American industry will feel the new government curbs on the civilian use of copper that will go into effect January 1. That is to say, of course, that in time the National Production Authority's latest order will have its impact on consumers generally.

No one needs to be told how important a commodity copper has become in this mechanized and electronized (if there is no such word there ought to be) civilization. Copper is used in making automobiles, household appliances, television and radio sets. It is essential in power and communications systems. In the form of brass and bronze it fills countless other needs.

After January 1 civilian industry will be forced to get along with less copper than it has been using. In January and February the amount delivered by mines and smelters must be 15 per cent below the monthly average total shipped during the first half of 1950. In March, shipments must be 20 per cent under that figure.

These cuts are substantial. They are based on the first half of this year, when production was not as high as in the last half, and consequently less copper was used than in recent months. The copper situation has been permitted to become critical. Copper now on hand represents only a 13-day supply. During World War II stocks never fell below a 30-day supply.

All out war with Russia now might find the nation desperately short of copper in a month's time.

Illinois Working Free

Illinois is on the way to becoming a more truly self-governing commonwealth. For years the state has been prevented from doing what it might like by the fetters of an archaic constitution. For practical purposes this could not be amended because of a rule, designed to prevent alteration, that only one amendment could be offered at an election, and that to be passed it must get a majority of all votes cast at the election. Those who did not vote on an amendment were thus counted against it, a rule which put a premium on indifference and ignorance.

Now after many years of struggle Illinois has passed the Gateway amendment. This is moderate indeed in its relaxation, but probably its sponsors feared that the voters would not stand for any greater freedom. It allows three amendments instead of one to come up at a time, and then allows them to be passed by a vote of two-thirds of those voting on the amendment. Inasmuch as to get on the ballot an amendment must receive approval of two thirds of each house of the legislature, the new amendment cannot be said to be letting the bars down to radical change. It does, however, make improvement a little easier.

Many Illinois leaders think that one of the first steps which should be taken is to equalize the legislative districts, so that they may represent citizens and not mere acres. A small minority of Illinois population now controls the legislature, and has refused since 1901 to redistrict the state. Whether two thirds of the legislature can now be persuaded to loosen the grip on power of a few is something which will soon be revealed.

World's Earliest Town

How far back does civilization reach, and where did it begin? For a long time historians were inclined to think Egypt the oldest country, and a famous authority, the late James H. Breasted of the University of Chicago, even ventured to set the first fixed date in history, B. C. 4241, the date of a certain astronomical event. A later weighing of the evidence would reduce the time to this remote period by some 1,500 years.

Now comes Dr. Robert Braidwood, another University of Chicago archaeologist, who has been excavating in Iraq, the Babylonia of the ancients. He has found enough bits of grain to fill a matchbox. This find, which sounds unimpressive, is on the contrary highly striking, because it represents the first traces of ancient agriculture that can be dated. They come from a community called Jaruma, which is known to have existed at least in B. C. 5500, and probably several centuries earlier.

Babylonia seems just now to be the likeliest region in which to find the beginnings of civilization. Until some site proves to ante-date Jaruma, this is entitled to honor as the world's earliest known town.

Learning To Live

Both men and women should be educated for the creation of a system of values, for the ability to make wise choices, for the establishment of a workable philosophy of life, and for the ability to make a worthwhile contribution to society, says Dr. Sarah G. Blanding, president of Vassar College.

The courses of study which tend toward these achievements for women are covered by the same liberal arts program which is furnished to men, she asserts. The skills which women need for homemaking may be easily acquired if they have been taught to think any problem through and to apply their ability to see beyond immediate objectives to basic values.

The results of education for "the age of specialization" have not all been desirable. The modern tendency, in education for both men and women, is to superimpose their specialized training upon the broad general basis of a liberal arts course. This is better calculated to produce a well-rounded individual who can meet life with equanimity upon any level.

Where Honor Is Due

Millions of Americans have enjoyed our national parks, but few have been in a position to do anything for them, other than helping individually to keep them beautiful. One of the few with the resources to do more is John D. Rockefeller, Jr., whose many services to the parks have been recognized by the National Audubon Society. That body has awarded him its bronze medal. The list of parks which he has helped by his gifts of money is imposing: Yosemite, Great Smoky Mountains, Grand Teton, Acadia, Yellowstone, Crater Lake, Mesa Verde, Shenandoah, and Palisades Interstate Park.

Better known is his far-sighted generosity in promoting the restoration of Williamsburg, Va., so that Americans might have a definite idea of life in colonial days. This has inspired many other attempts to bring back the life of the past by restoring old mining towns, old-time seaports and the like.

Careers of philanthropy like that of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., do more than reams of propaganda to show the benefit that can come from large fortunes, if their owners have a spirit of public service.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Pass The Germs

WHILE eating breakfast the other morning I witnessed one of the best examples of how colds are passed from one person to another. The waitress was coughing, not an ordinary cough but a super-duper. Between each siege she blew her nose.

This is a fine restaurant and is made up entirely of a winding counter and stools. Each girl has less than 30 feet in which to walk because the kitchen is in the center, visible to all. With each "bark" the waitress in question spewed germs into the air for all to breathe. But this was only a minor offense compared with the real misdemeanor. At the water fountain, when her back with turned to the customers, she hacked continually not only over the glass she was filling but also over those on the stand. She did the same thing when handling pats of butter, cream, and silverware.

But when she faced the customers she coughed politely into her hand to keep the spray to herself. With this gesture she contaminated her fingers and two seconds later rearranged the toast for Mr. Jones and picked up the dish of scrambled eggs for Mr. Smith. Then she would reach into her pocket for her hankie, rearranging it to find a dry spot. This contaminated her hands even more.

It is not the purpose of this article to spoil your appetite but to demonstrate what so many of us put up with every day. It also helps to substantiate the ideas of many scientists, especially the British, that colds are passed from one to another by contaminated fingers, utensils, and food rather than by inhaling infected droplets via the air. Here was a perfect example as this waitress broke every rule in the book. The episode with the handkerchief bears repetition because it is so typical of what most of us do. After the nose is blown, the handkerchief obviously is contaminated. When the cloth is handled again from five to 24 hours later, we are likely to touch mucus. Furthermore, many men have the habit of shaking the cloth before putting it to use a second time. Enough has been said lest the reader develop a germ phobia.

This waitress may have acquired her cold from one of the customers and in this respect cannot be blamed for anything except that she now is passing on the infection to others. She is playing a role in hiking the cost of illness. Not long ago one of the regular customers was overheard complaining that something should be done about the common cold. Here was an opportunity that was muffed. The little girl knew better because she kept saying, "I should have stayed at home but decided to come down anyway."

We owe it to our fellow workers to stay home when we are blowing, sneezing, and coughing. By remaining in bed the infection comes under control more quickly and we can return to the job with a clear conscience.

Mrs. E. W. writes: Is a heart murmur resulting from diphtheria considered organic or functional?

REPLY

Murmurs resulting from diphtheria usually are organic. On the other hand, a functional murmur may have been present even before the attack of diphtheria and if so the disease had nothing to do with its development. Additional tests such as the electrocardiogram and chest X-ray will be needed to settle the point.

THE CAUSE OF "PEACE" ROLLS FORWARD

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Prime Minister Shines In Kitchen; Allied Diplomats Question MacArthur's Authority; Gen. Bradley Admits Korean Errors

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The right honorable Clement Attlee, now Prime Minister of Britain, once served a brief term as dishwasher in the U.S.A.

It happened during the United Nations conference in San Francisco in 1945, when Attlee was deputy prime minister.

Attlee had received a letter from a San Francisco printer, Joseph Collier, who, 30 years before, had known Attlee when both were members of the same Labor party club on the outskirts of London. (Attlee was then a social worker.) So Collier invited Attlee to dine at his working-class home in San Francisco. The No. 2 man of England accepted the invitation with pleasure, at a huge meal, then asked who was going to do the dishes.

"Why, I will do them later, myself," replied Mrs. Collier.

At this the Deputy Prime Minister of England went into the kitchen, put on an apron, and, while the Colliers wiped, Attlee washed the dishes.

British And MacArthur

For about five days before Prime Minister Attlee's arrival in Washington, the State department was deluged with cables and official visits from North Atlantic pact ambassadors asking where General MacArthur was leading the United Nations and whether he alone was deciding when and how the Western world should declare war on China.

Reason for the alarm was not only the tragically precarious positions of U. N. troops in Korea, but because allied diplomats knew what the American public didn't—namely, that on three specific occasions, the British made proposals for avoiding a clash with China.

1. First the British urged that MacArthur halt U. N. forces on the 38th Parallel.

2. When this was overruled, the British proposed that MacArthur halt his army about 40 miles away from the Manchurian border. This proposal was laid before MacArthur at Wake Island and supposedly accepted.

3. The British proposed that no move be made to bomb Chinese bases inside Manchuria.

MacArthur's opposition to these proposals is why Prime Minister Attlee faced the revolt of about 100 Labor members of parliament.

Kindly General Bradley

Officials admit that General MacArthur at time overreached his authority, but are inclined to blame kindly General Omar Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, for not being tougher with his friend in Tokyo.

What happened was that MacArthur would cable the Joint Chiefs of Staff, demanding that he be allowed to override Washington instructions. Couched in MacArthur's vigorous, sizzling language, his messages usually predicted dire consequences if his ideas were not followed. So, after some sputtering among the Joint Chiefs of Staff, General Bradley usually concluded that the commander in the field should be permitted to make the final decision.

"General MacArthur knows the situation better than we do over here," kindly General Bradley would tell the President. And Truman, not the forceful military strategist Roosevelt was, invariably gave his O.K.

Korean Errors Admitted

However, Bradley, an honest man as well as a great soldier, didn't attempt to cover up mistakes in Korea when he conferred at the White House with the President, Cabinet chiefs, and Congressional leaders last week.

Despite slanted news reports that MacArthur was acting under "instructions" from Washington when he led U. N. troops into the Chinese Communist trap, Bradley candidly admitted that MacArthur was "on his own, like any field general under the circumstances."

Bradley also reported that he "couldn't understand" why MacArthur was unprepared for the Chinese Communist invasion of Korea, inasmuch as the Communists were massing an army of 500,000 troops on the Manchurian border for two weeks before the attack.

"General MacArthur has reported that he didn't expect an attack," Bradley continued. "Otherwise he wouldn't have dispersed his troops."

"You say he didn't expect an attack," chorused Sen. Tom Connally of Texas and other amazed Congressional chiefs. "What was wrong with his intelligence?"

"They didn't know the Chinese were massing in such numbers," replied Bradley, somewhat grimly.

Bradley also admitted, under questioning by Connally, that for some time prior to the Communist attack, large segments of U. N. forces were divided by the mountain range dissecting the Korean peninsula, with little or no liaison.

Bradley concluded that the situation "looked pretty grim."

Significantly, GOP Sen. Alexander Wiley and other friends of MacArthur at the meeting didn't open their mouths to defend him.

As the meeting broke up, GOP Rep. Dewey Short of Missouri told Secretary of State Dean Acheson that this is not the time to use the A-bomb.

"We should save it for the Russians, not drop it on her satellites," declared Short.

Democratic Sen. Millard Tydings of Maryland, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, also objected to dropping the bomb in Korea or China, asserting it would be a tragic mistake that might turn the whole world against us and further diminish the waning hopes of restoring would peace.

NOTE — Secretary Acheson has scrupulously refrained from any criticism of MacArthur at any closed-door sessions with Congress or elsewhere.

Confidence Of The People Rests With The President

By MARK SULLIVAN

FROM the day when eruption of Chinese Communists into Korea brought utmost crisis, there was imperative need of confidence on the part of the people. Responsibility for bringing this about lay heavily on President Truman, for he would be in office for more than two years. America could not achieve public confidence as it is sometimes achieved in times of crisis in countries having parliamentary government, such as Britain. In Britain, if lack of confidence exists, a vote in the House of Commons can remove the administration in power and substitute another. Since this cannot take place in the United States, since Mr. Truman's tenure of office will last until January, 1953, there is responsibility on him for bringing public confidence in ways within his power. There is evidence that he feels this and gives thought to steps toward that end.

What is meant by public confidence is a broad feeling of assurance on the part of the people that things will be done well. This is not achievable by simple change of an official here and there, such as took place in an early phase of the Korean war when Secretary of Defense Johnson resigned. It is not achievable by any number of unrelated steps on the part of the administration. What is needed is to make the people feel that the President has waived some of his own prerogatives of judgment, that he follows on a broad scale a practice of deferring to the judgment of others — including especially ones whom in the past he has opposed and ones who hold principles and have an outlook contrary to what has been his.

Could Defer To Byrd

Among men to whom Mr. Truman could thus give deference, and by doing so bring about a feeling of assurance on the part of the people, a conspicuous example is Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. This is not merely because of Mr. Byrd's standing and ability in the broad sense, it is especially because of his thoroughness of grasp, frequently expressed, in one of the fields in which public confidence is most needed, the fiscal operations of the government. Among the fields in which public anxiety exists, the most conspicuous presently arises from the past conduct of foreign relations, especially as regards China. But there is equal occasion for anxiety, though the public may not be so generally conscious of it, about the government's fiscal policies and operations. If the public knew that in this field President Truman would accept the judgment of Sen. Byrd, thereby reversing the President's attitude in the past, the effect would give tonic and firmness to the country's fiscal and economic systems.

The presently disturbing condition of the country's fiscal system with danger of worse, expressed among other ways by increase of government debt and inflation, dates back some two years. The war was over and with it the immense expenditures and borrowing by the government made necessary by the war. There was every reason to expect not only that government borrowing would cease but that payment on the debt and reduction of it would be begun. Actually this was done, briefly. During two fiscal years there were reductions of the government debt. But in early 1949 it became apparent, from the amount of appropriations asked of Congress by President Truman for purposes other than military ones, that total expenditures of the government would exceed its receipts, that there would be a deficit, more borrowing by the government, increase of the national debt.

Sen. Byrd was appalled. So were many others. But Sen. Byrd had ability to analyze the government's fiscal condition and operations and to make them as clear to the public as anything so complex can be.

Serious Danger

In four major speeches he uttered solemn warning. The gist of what he said was that if the government did not balance its budget in a time of peace and prosperity, the people might come to wonder whether it would ever do so. Any doubt on this point, Sen. Byrd said, might ultimately undermine the government's credit; and destruction of the government's credit, he said, could destroy our form of government. Sen. Byrd had reason to feel apprehension that government deficits might become a practice when during late 1949 statements from fiscal authorities in the administration said in effect that it is not necessary to balance the budget in any one year, that it is enough to balance the budget whenever it is easy to balance. What was up to last June a danger unnecessarily and rather recklessly incurred by the administration is now made by war a danger of the utmost seriousness. It would be assurance to the country if it could know that in matters having to do with government debt, taxation, and the government budget generally, a judgment of Sen. Byrd would be given authoritative weight.

Recognition War Exists Would Unite Free World

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—The free world—fumbling, debating, arguing for the self-interest of each member nation—is up against the totalitarian world where neither parliaments nor business, nor labor, nor allies have much to say about public policy.

This handicap, long expected to plague the free world in its hour of decision, is visible to everybody—including Russia. If all the nations in the free world were to recognize that a state of war already exists, there would be unity in a common cause and a measure of self-discipline. But there is no such realism.

American troops in large numbers are in Korea with other allied units to carry out a mission for the United Nations to halt aggression.

The U. N. troops are being beaten on the field of battle—they are meeting severe reverses after having been prevented from using air power against enemy concentrations across the Manchurian border.

What does the world hear from the principal members of the U. N.? From Britain and France come tirades against the American general. In the British Parliament, one Cabinet minister says MacArthur exceeded U. N. directives. A member of the British government repudiates that charge and says MacArthur carried out U. N. objectives.

No Such Evidence

Hindsight is always better than foresight but what is inexplicable today is the assumption in European official quarters that if U. N. troops had stopped at the 38th Parallel or at an imaginary line north of it, the Chinese Communists would have promptly made peace and the U. N. mission into Korea would have been carried out successfully.

There is not the slightest evidence that there would have been any such acquiescence by the Communists whose broadcasts from Peiping for several weeks have insisted only on the immediate and complete exodus of U. N. forces from Korea.

The decision which really hangs in the balance to be appraised one way or the other is the U. N. decision of June 26 to go into Korea. The moment the U. N. constituted itself as an international police force it could not revert to the status of a quasi-military or quasi-diplomatic organization which tries to tell troops to move into a country, then asks them to halt while the enemy is politely asked whether it will accept defeat. If the enemy says it won't do so, then there is evidently more debate on what to do about it while the enemy is given time to regroup his military forces.

If the U. N. now, having gone into Korea, in effect orders its military forces to evacuate what has been conquered, then the U. N. will lose the respect of many millions of Americans and there will be a demand for full freedom of action for the United States in world affairs—leaving it to America to decide hereafter when and where it will use its forces and its resources.

This is sometimes called "isolationism." More "isolationists" have been born in the last few days since the British government has enunciated its viewpoint than were bred since the 1920's. The demand for America to go its own way in world affairs—helping in Europe or in Asia as its resources permit—will become the demand of many political groups inside both major parties. Isolationism bored within the Democratic as well as the Republican party as late as 1932.

Global Responsibility

The situation today happens to fit a paragraph written by Owen Lattimore, the Far Eastern expert, in one of his books published in 1949 when he said:

". . . Those who plan and carry out American policy will fall into a trap if they think that what is required of them is a decision between 'Europe first' and 'Asia first.' In 1946, 1947, and 1948 Europe fitted the combined specifications of the Communist theory of what constitutes an opportunity and the methods available to the Soviet state for exploiting an opportunity better than in Asia.

"In 1949 Asia fits the specifications better than Europe. But both then and now the situations in Europe and in Asia have never ceased to interact on each other."

It is the global aspect of America's responsibility and the U. N.'s responsibility, and the interdependence of policy in Europe and Asia which are being overlooked by those who today are counseling retreat and surrender in the Far East on the theory that this means a strengthened U. N. in Europe. Wherever the free world is beaten, its prestige goes down — but it doesn't stay down if it heroically fights back as it did all the way from Bataan in 1941 to Tokyo in September 1945.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Policy That Failed

SHORTLY after Mr. Truman became President of the United States, he went to the Potsdam conference where the United States was trimmed by the superior diplomacy of Joe Stalin. The country sympathized with Harry Truman because it was generally felt that he had no preparation for such great affairs.

Mr. Truman's secretary of state was James Byrnes, who had never devoted himself to such matters before, he having been a United States senator and a justice of the Supreme Court, but neither an historian nor a specialist in international relations. What Truman and Byrnes tried to do was to salvage for the United States the most they could out of the commitmens of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins, some of which were not even recorded in the usual way.

In due course, Mr. Truman got rid of James Byrnes and appointed George Marshall as his secretary of state, a position in which Marshall was really subordinated to Dean Acheson, a State department specialist. In time, Acheson succeeded Marshall and worked out the policy of containment.

The policy of containment was always unrealistic. What it amounted to was that Soviet Russia was to stay put. Our stipulations were that Russia was not to move into Iran, Greece, Turkey or Germany. That, of course, was not staying put. If left an enormous area of the earth's surface into which Soviet Russia could expand. And from the American standpoint, the areas left open were greater and more important than those closed to Russia.

It was a display of geographic and historic ignorance and it indicated a total lack of understanding of the Marxist movement throughout the world and of the ideological-imperialistic aims of Soviet Russia.

One of the accompaniments of the containment policy was the final abandonment of Chiang Kai-Shek and Nationalist China. Many factors entered into this decision, but for purposes of this discussion we may limit ourselves to one, namely, that the United States did not possess the economic and military strength to oppose Soviet Russia throughout the world alone. Little help was then expected from other countries and less has actually been received than was expected.

The choice of Europe first from which derived, in part, the abandonment of China has now been proved, by the course of events, to have been an error. Dean Acheson sought to cover up the error, but such a cover-up could not have been in the national interest. It could only preserve his group in power.

He was given a way out by the Wedemeyer reports on China and Korea. The China report was suppressed for two years; the Korean report even to this day. Acheson confused the situation by a false propaganda concerning the nature and character of Chinese Communists — a propaganda which would have been as false in 1920 as it was in 1948 and 1949. In a word, it was a betrayal of American interests. It was the sacrifice of millions of human beings to the advantage of a few in the White House and the State Department.

This may seem to be too harsh a judgment; yet none other is possible in the circumstances. The course of events permits no other conclusions, for knowledge of the facts, unavailable to the people, must have been available to the President and his Secretary of State. They must have known the facts of the relations of nations within the Communist world; how politics were made in the Kremlin for the comiform countries; that the Chinese Communists had been part of the Third International since 1920—active, effective, and recognized.

Someone in the State department must have studied the vast files on the subject, beginning with the "Students Movement" in 1919 and proceedin to this day. Someone must have told Dean Acheson of the training schools for Chinese Communists in Irkutsk, Leningrad and Moscow—of the Sun Yat-Sen Institute at Moscow.

Dean Acheson's calculation of Europe first involved the cost of the Marshall plan and European military aid. The Russians rejected Dean Acheson's theory, following rather the conceptions of Lenin. They placed East Asia first on their program, conquering China, part of Korea and paving the way to India.

The Korean war completely and finally disposes of the policy of containment. Its failure has forced every other country to re-examine its own policies and re-appraise its situation. It has thrown all the world into confusion and has imperilled America.

WHEN THAT glittering comet, Clare Luce, first flashed on the political horizon as a newly-elected Congresswoman, she moved into a choice office in the New House Office Building . . . Usually, offices in that building, which are considered more desirable, go to senior House members, and newcomers have to take what's left . . . So when Clare got such a fine perch, other Congressmen couldn't figure out how she rated it . . . Of course, they couldn't know she owed it to her trusted secretary and adviser . . . Before the opening of Congress, when the offices were to be distributed, he had arisen before five o'clock and when the Building Superintendent (he doles out the offices) opened his doors, Clare Luce's secretary had first place in line . . . And first come was first served.

This year they've changed the rules . . . The new Representatives will draw numbers from a big fish bowl to determine their quarters.

The same hard-working, broad-grinning fellow who got Clare Luce a good office, will be on hand this year to get an office for another Congressman.

For himself.

He's another example of a secretary who became boss . . . He's Congressman Albert Morano who ran for the seat John Davis Lodge vacated in Connecticut . . .

Is it news that Marriner Eccles will resign from the Federal Reserve in January? . . . 'Course, it would be hot news to announce that this perennial bachelor is hitting the orange blossom trail . . . But if Marriner is romancing any lucky girl, he's keeping it a Secret . . . Which he certainly ain't doing about his resignation.

Secretary of the Army and fresh, blonde, streamlined Mrs. Frank Pace will be migrating Southward soon . . . Taking that vacation they missed last summer . . . They'll drink up plenty of Florida sunshine (they hope!), play golf, plunge in the surf . . . And Top-Army Man Pace will stuff to the gills on his favorite foods . . . They happen to be Southern fried chicken and banana ice cream.

Ever-effervescent grandmother Cobina Wright, in her youth a concert star, now, in her second or perhaps third youth, a star columnist, finds Washington somewhat changed since the days when she visited for long weeks at "Friendship" with her pal, Evalyn Walsh McLean.

"I guess Morris Cafritz has given the town a New Look with his apartment houses. And his wife, Swen, is changing its society. Next year's musical hit should be titled 'Call Me A Gwen'."

Cobina sailed into Gwen Cafritz' party (to welcome Congress back) wearing one of her outlandish Hollywood hats. She was tinkling with gold bracelets and tingling excitement . . . Because she had attended the opening of Congress, got lots of good material . . . Lunched with Sen. Styles Bridges and refused to tell him her age.

SECRETS OF CHARM

EMBARRASS a man in public and he will be loath to risk that embarrassment again. Many a girl has failed to receive a second invitation, merely because she attracted the wrong kind of attention.

In my travels to every section of this country, I am constantly amazed at the number of women who carelessly and, I am sure, unintentionally make spectacles of themselves in public.

Any young woman who makes a grandstand play for the complete attention of everybody within ear or eye range is usually a misinformed one. She may gain amused acknowledgement of her presence—but rarely approval or acceptance. Attracting deserved attention must never be confused with making a scene or becoming a spectacle. Flattering attention is only accorded those who do not seem to demand it.

A woman can attract attention by her loud, tell-it-to-the-world speech. Or by her raucous, unfeminine laugh. Both or either will turn the heads of those around you. But their thoughts will not be, "Isn't she charming?"

A voice that is modulated to reach only the ears of those to whom you are talking is a sure way to get the right kind of attention. Laughter must be controlled, too. Listen to make sure your own is not louder than it should be. If it is, practice in private. And if you are guilty of a continuous giggle, remember it is never taken for anything except lack of poise—which is exactly what it is.

Good comedians are rare. If the role tempts you, just remember the wise girls leave it to the professionals. Trying to be funny may make others think of you as just plain pecullar. Ungainly movements, wild gestures and overdone facial grimaces may belong to the clown, but never to the clever wit.

Fairy Story Characters Prepare For Christmas

CHICAGO. — (INS) — The fairy story characters in Colleen Moore's doll house are just like humans in many ways—but they decided that with only a few weeks left till Christmas, they would be a little different.

The imaginary little people in Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry decided to do their Christmas shopping early.

They knew they would need meat for their Christmas table, so early this morning King Arthur and his knights of the round table went out to hunt wild boar.

Then the Sleeping Beauty Princess stopped spinning golden angel hair to look for Prince Charming to send him out after a big Christmas tree—but the Prince had already left the castle to hunt mistletoe.

And then the Princess saw Snow White and her seven dwarfs, but they couldn't help—they are busy making decorations. And besides, everyone knows they are not big enough to carry a large tree.

Hans Brinker could have helped—but he has been out on Lake Michigan all day using his silver skates. And Jack the Giant Killer sprained his ankle on his last trip, so he couldn't go.

It seemed that perhaps the fairyland people had been like humans after all, and had not planned their Christmas shopping early enough.

Then, out from behind a fireplace she had been dusting stepped Cinderella. And Cindy summoned her fairy godmother.

"What?" the fairy godmother said. "No Christmas tree? Well, I'll just call on an old schoolmate of mine, a sorority sister, in fact—the Christmas Fairy."

With that she waved her magic wand and, lo and behold, there was the Christmas Fairy herself. The Christmas Fairy stepped outside the castle and saw a big weeping willow tree near the big fountain, and said:

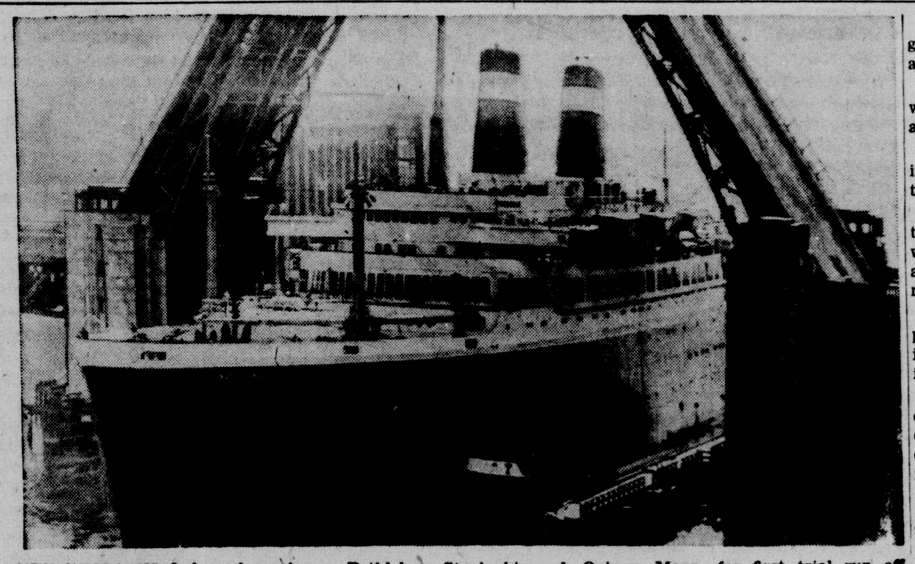

"This is no season for weeping—you should be gay at Christmas time."

So she turned the weeping willow into a beautiful Christmas tree. And the crocodile tears the willow had been shedding turned into little glowing lights.

The Wizard of Oz suddenly put in an appearance then and whispered some magic words—and a gleaming star appeared on the top of the tree—and soft, fluorescent snow sprinkled down from the sky to give the tree its final magical splendor.

And if you don't believe in the powers of the Christmas Fairy hitch a ride to Chicago with Santa Claus some time before New Year's day, and there, in the miniature castle garden, you'll see the tree for yourself . . . but only if you are guided by the Christmas Spirit.

The Omaha Indians believed that if a man was killed by lightning, the soles of his feet must be split or else he would not rest, but wander around until some other person was killed in the same manner and buried beside him.

Scientist Finds Very Complicated Mechanism Inside Thundercloud

BOSTON — (AP) — A scientist has stuck his head inside a thundercloud, to find out what goes on behind that lowering black curtain.

He found a very complicated mechanism and not just a cloud of water vapor dripping assorted raindrops and thunderbolts.

Curious things happen inside thunderclouds, Joachim Kuettner of the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories discovered:

Updrafts and downdrafts, formation of solid precipitation (freezing of supercooled water droplets), formation of different kinds of electrical charges in different parts of thunderstorm "cells."

But after studying 125 storms (including 67 thunderstorms) in a three-year period, he wound up with somewhat of a mystery.

"Lightning," he says in an article in the Journal of Meteorology, 'seems to be only a disturbance of the balance of the electrical field intensity" in a thundércloud. But, he adds, that balance "seems to be regulated by some other unknown phenomenon."

The problem of thunderstorms lured Kuettner to the observatory atop the 10,000-foot zugspitze, Germany's highest mountain peak, a peak which pokes its summit right into the bast of thunderclouds.

And if you have a yen to go poking into thunderclouds, read what Kuettner says:

"The natural laboratory is huge and dangerous; the processes are neither steady nor two-dimensional; the ground observations are ambiguous; the inaccuracy of electric measurements, due to moisture, precipitation, icing, and aircraft speed, is discouraging, as are the complexity and variability of electrical conditions in a thunderstorm."

Nevertheless, Kuettner found out:

A local thunderstorm can be bigger than you think—up to 60 miles across.

It is made up of individual "cells" which may be several miles wide, and high.

The cell, in turn, is subdivided into other cells, of maybe a tenth the size of the mature cell.

The mature cell extends upward to a height of five or six miles where a cirrus anvil floats (that's a white, filmy, lofty layer of clouds made of ice crystals).

It extends through various temperatures ranging from above-freezing at its base to bitter zero reading far aloft.

There are generally three main electrical charges, local positive charge in the base, a negative charge in the lower part, and a positive charge in the upper part.

"The negative charge center is apparently the starting point of most lightning," Kuettner found out.

"A cloud that has been in process of formation for one or two hours seems to be a necessary condition for the first lightning stroke, with a large disc of cirrus cloud far above."

It is customary for military airplanes flying over the Wright memorial at Kitty Hawk, N. C., to circle the monument before proceeding, in honor of the memory of the airplane pioneers.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)

THERE is sharp reluctance on the part of the State Department to approve aid to an active enemy of Communism, Nationalist China. Conversely, we bolster Tito's Communist dictatorship over Yugoslavia.

On the surface it is a bewildering contradiction. Beneath the surface, says the department, lie a vast network of extenuating circumstances involving policy, past experience and fear of ridicule in liberal circles. But an increasing number of Americans are beginning to wonder whether those circumstances properly alter the blunt facts on the surface.

Not without the support of Secretary Acheson, the impression flourished for years that Chiang Kai-Shek's administration was nothing but a nest of foul corruption. When our efforts to blend the thin oil of his democracy with the heavy water of his Moscow-trained enemies failed, we let him go down the drain, and act which in time caused the subjection of nearly half a billion nominally friendly Chinese to Communist exploitation.

We condemned Chiang for balking at the kind of wedding to which we would not think of subscribing. At the time we were in the mood to knock Chiang's head together with Mao's as a "solution" it must have occurred to him to ask, "If this is what the United States wants why doesn't it reshape its own government on the basis of a democratic-Communist coalition?"

• — • — •

We wanted for Chiang something which not even the staunchest Red in the State Department would have openly recommended for ourselves, and grew vastly impatient with him when he wouldn't play ball. This is not hearsay.

In July, 1945, I was among a group of reporters who interviewed Chiang at a military review near Sian. One of us asked him whether he was then prepared to open his ruling party to Communist representatives from the north—as reported—and when it was translated to him he exploded in red-faced anger for a full two minutes.

But the translator, an American responsible to superiors who were in turn responsible to the State Department, interpreted the blast in a very conciliatory way and would have had us believe that Chiang's enemies were welcome. The man's actual remarks, obtained later from a Chinese, were as full of homely indignation as would be the language of President Truman if it were now suggested to him to take William Z. Foster, Paul Robeson and Howard Fast into his cabinet.

Tito is explosively proud of his Communist background and his adherence to its strictest line. He has ruthlessly liquidated democratic and spiritual forces opposed to his rule. His purge of Mihailovich and countless followers of that vigorous anti-Nazi remains a matter which should come before U. N.'s genocide judges. He contemptuously ignored several of our modest demands for reparations after his fighter planes shot down two of our unarmed transports. Aside from a routine blast against aggression, he has offered no aid to U. N. forces in Korea.

• — • — •

Chiang's early offer of 33,000 troops to aid the U. N. cause is still ignored, although the excuse for the rejection was that acceptance might prompt the Chinese Reds to come into Korea. Today he would offer many more and—as a matter of fact his guerrillas to the announced number of 1,614,600 are now at war against Mao's Reds on the Chinese mainland, engaging hordes which might otherwise now be storming into Korea.

The guerrillas operate on a unified command based on Formosa. About 600,000 of them are well armed. They are strongest in Southwest China, where they number 477,000, a force actively at war against the Reds. The guerrilla force of 338,000 in Central China is picking up strength daily. Another 315,000 are active in Southeast China and 281,000 in South China, where the work of missionaries has built a solid basis of democracy through the generations.

The Nationalist government, which attests to these figures, has informed this government that most of the guerrillas are former Nationalist troops who were unable to make it to Formosa before the avalanche.

Yet while we hesitate to make use of active Communist forces on Formosa and the mainland, and meanwhile spend billions in a Western Europe to strengthen its will to fight Communism, we contribute enthusiastically to Tito, who self-admittedly is more truly Communist than Stalin.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Latest tale pinned on Hollywood's best known language assassin concerns his session with a handwriting expert at an exotic night club. "You write boldly," she told him archly "but I don't think much of your punctuation." "You don't hey?" said the Hollywoodite angrily. "I'll have you know I haven't been late to a story conference in ten years."

James N. Floyd, of the Lone Star Gas Company in Dallas, says that a customer tried to get him on the phone the other day, but the pretty new operator at his switchboard got her numbers mixed up. The customer heard the operator say, "Hello, is this the gas company?" and an angry voice at the other end of the wire reply, "Definitely not. This is the Dean of the Law School." The pretty new operator giggled and said, "Well, I didn't miss it so far, did I?"

Gen. Gavin Chief Advocate For Using A-Bomb In Korea

By DREW PEARSON

Chief advocate for using the A-bomb in Korea—the big issue now being debated by President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee—is Maj. Gen. James M. Gavin, former commander of the 82nd Airborne Division, and now a member of the weapons evaluation group for the Secretary of defense.

Gen. Gavin proposes using the now relatively old-fashioned Hiroshima bomb, not against civilian populations as at Hiroshima, but against massed enemy troops. He estimates that this bomb, dropped from an altitude of only 2,000 feet, can wipe out one whole division of enemy troops. Furthermore he estimates that the radio-activity in the wake of the bomb would linger only a matter of minutes, thus troops could come forward in only a short time.

Those who oppose Gen. Gavin's argument point out that Russia, which now possesses the A-bomb, could be expected to retaliate against American cities, now a long way from being ready for A-bomb attack. Also the effect on European public opinion would be disastrous.

Gen. Gavin also estimates that one T-bomb, which is the Army designation of the Hiroshima type, is equal to 8,000 medium artillery shells per square mile. He has also worked out for the Joint Chiefs of Staff a survey showing what one atomic bomb of this type would have done in the battle of Okinawa. In this battle he points out the United States had 36 ships sunk, 368 ships damaged, 736 planes lost and 48,025 battle casualties. These losses, he estimates, could have been avoided by one atomic bomb.

Chinese Attack Jolted U. S. Brass

TOKYO, Dec. 5 (AP)—The big Chinese Communist attack in Korea was perhaps as surprising and certainly more shocking to top U. S. commanders than the original North Korean invasion last June.

Both caught the Western Powers unprepared to meet a powerhouse thrust from behind Asia's iron curtain.

Public statements by U. S. intelligence officers show that in both instances they had only incomplete military information and almost no political information.

Intelligence officers say frankly they knew the Chinese attack was possible, but they did not think it would be made. They had followed the movement of Red Gen. Lin Piao's huge Fourth Field Army across China to Manchuria.

The Fourth Army had originally been stationed in Manchuria. It could have been returning after postponement of plans for invading Formosa.

Then in early October, when Allied forces were approaching the 38th parallel between North and South Korea, Red China broadcast its only advance warning.

Chou En-Lai, premier of the Red regime, declared that the Chinese people "will not stand supinely by while their neighbors is being invaded."

Yet no one seemed to take this statement seriously. Willoughby observed that "we now know they warned us and meant business."

Navy Asks Scientists To Develop Weapons

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The Navy asked some top scientists today to help develop new weapons which would be guided to enemy targets by the targets themselves.

The service urged some of the nation's leading physicists to give new thought to conceiving weapons that might be guided and operated by means of "influences" emanating from an enemy objective.

Such influences include heat, noise, magnetism, and radio waves.

This concept of "target influence" was under study today at a meeting of the Navy's advisory committee on "solid state physics"—a committee largely composed of physicists from universities and private laboratories.

Salesman, Halted By Cop, Sells Him Insurance Policy

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 5 (AP)—Highway Patrolman Lee Sardis halted O. A. Biggs of Tulsa today for passing a car in a no passing zone.

The officer gave Biggs a stern lecture, told him there were far too many accidents on the highways. Biggs agreed with him.

Presently Biggs drove on without a ticket. But Sardis had a memento of the meeting—a brand new insurance policy covering public liability and property damage purchased from Salesman Biggs.

Lane And Engineers Discuss Bridge Damage

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5 (AP)—Gov. Lane met with engineers and representatives of the State Roads Commission today to discuss damage done at the bay bridge project during the big storm Nov. 25.

Governor-elect McKeldin said yesterday he was told by a leading engineer that damage was greater than the $500,000 to $1,000,000 which had been estimated. He said he would order an investigation to see if the big span is being built sturdily enough to withstand poundings from waves and ice packs.

Gov. Lane declined to discuss what went on at today's conference.

Vote On Mrs. Rosenberg Confirmation Is Blocked

WASHINGTON Dec. 5 (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska today blocked temporarily a Senate vote on confirmation of Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg as assistant secretary of defense.

He objected when her name was brought up in a parliamentary situation requiring unanimous consent for the Senate to vote.

Wherry told the Senate he had been requested by another senator to have action on the nomination withheld temporarily. He would not make public the senator's name.

New Infirmary Water Pipe Is To Arrive Soon

Pittsburgh Firm Heeds County's Emergency

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, anpounced Tuesday that the plea of the county for shipment of 1,800 feet of cast iron pipe needed in an emergency has been heeded by a Pittsburgh steel company.

Getty contacted the firm after J. Monroe Sharer, an official of the H. & S. Plumbing and Heating Company, informed the board that delivery of the pipe had been held up due to shortages resulting from the Korean War.

The pipe is needed for a new water line from Furnace Street to the Allegany County Infirmary Surges in the present smaller water line cause damage to plumbing fixtures at the infirmary and a larger line is needed for fire protection.

The State Fire Inspection Board had informed the county that a license to operate the infirmary would not be granted unless the eight-inch line was installed.

Shipment of the pipe is expected next week. Sharer had been informed by the steel company that shipment could not be expected until in the spring. Getty contacted the firm by telephone last week and after outlining the emergency nature of the matter was informed the request would be granted.

Castleman Held In Felony Case

Roy L. Castleman, 317 Arch Street, waived a preliminary hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court and was ordered held under $500 bond for action of the January grand jury on Charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony.

Detective Thomas J. See said Castleman confessed to robbing the Conway Liquor Store, 402 Virginia Avenue, Sunday night. He was arrested early Monday morning.

Police said $196 in merchandise, including 33 fifths of whisky, were stolen from the place. Castleman admitted drinking one-half of a fifth before leaving the store.

The prisoner, according to Detective See, said he sold or gave away most of the liquor. Several bottles were recovered, along with other merchandise.

Strange Disease Turns Out To Be Not So Rare

SALT LAKE CITY—(AP)—One of the strangest diseases, which was thought to be one of the rarest, progressive muscular dystrophy, is turning out to be not so rare.

Reasons to believe it is widespread have been found at the College of Medicine of the University of Utah. The findings were described by Dr. Frank H. Tyler, assistant professor of medicine and member of the laboratory for study of hereditary and metabolic diseases.

This disease is weakening of muscles, for no known cause, and with no remedy. In adults, the first sign is likely to be inability to lift one arm high enough to comb the hair or do overhead reaching work. The weakness is in a shoulder muscle.

Sometimes an early fault will show in inability to whistle. The pucker stops working. Otherwise the mouth is normal.

From the start in a single muscle, the disease may spread through most all muscles. Or it may stop at any point. Dr. Tyler finds people who never noticed they had this trouble.

When dystrophy gets bad, pelvic muscles weaken so that walking becomes a duck-like waddle. Severe cases, when they lie down, are able to rise only by first getting to their knees, and then pushing themselves up with hands on knees.

The disease is entirely hereditary. It cannot pass from person to person.

The discoveries here are due partly to the fact that this is one of the recently settled parts of the world. It is still possible to trace nearly 600 known cases in this area of five states, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, Wyoming and Southwestern Colorado. There are more known cases here than ever before available for direct study. They run in 17 family trees. The scientific foundation was laid by the late Dr. Samuel Baldwin of Salt Lake City, who gathered many of the early facts.

Dr. Tyler says probably there are no more in this area than elsewhere. In most areas doctors do not recognize mild cases.

There are two types, the adult already described, and a childhood type. The latter is passed only by mothers and only to males. That is, it is sex-linked. In little boys the trouble begins about two. They seldom live much beyond twenty. Dystrophy does not kill them, but muscle weakness makes them a prey to other diseases.

Both men and women have the adult type. Either can transmit it. In this type heridity is the dominant kind—that is, if it fails to appear in a child, it will never appear in the offspring of that child unless brought in by some subsequent mating.

Maps during the Middle Ages showed the geographic location of Paradise on earth. It was put at the top of the map and usually contained a picture of Eden.

Surnames are not universally used in Sweden. Comparatively few Swedish country people have surnames.

At the next meeting of the corps, Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the post home, officers and members of the activities committee will discuss plans for the banquet for the past national champion corps to be honored on January 29. Frank Webb is chairman of the banquet committee.

Burned Youth Has More Friends Than He Thought

PITTSBURGH. — (AP) — Michael Califi, a badly-burned 14-year-old who said he wants to die because his pals have forgotten him, has more friends today than he thought —including a movie actress.

An exploding can of cleaning fluid put Michael in the hospital six months ago. Daily visits by Michael's young friends to his West Penn hospital bed were what kept him going.

But six months is a long time for busy youngsters, and the fellows stopped coming around. His get well cards fell off—and Mike decided the boys had forgotten him.

The boy told his nurses and family:

"I want to die. Nobody cares about me. Why don't they write?"

This week, Michael's story got out. Telegrams and phone calls from all over resulted.

One telegram came from Movie Actress Celeste Holm in Hollywood. She told Michael to keep his chin up—that she and other friends in Hollywood are pulling for him.

Another wire from Baltimore said:

"We'll supply the get well cards. You just get well." It was signed Larry, J. B. and Porky King.

Doctors said Michael can recover from his burns—but he's got to have the will to live.

"He's brightening up already," a nurse remarked.

Stork Is Loser But Papa Pays

CHICAGO (AP) — Bernard Goldman of suburban Wilmette hustled his wife into their automobile and sped south toward Chicago.

A park police squad car saw the Goldmans whiz by and gave chase. Officers Henry Walthers and Henry Tutles reported later that the Goldman car was careening down the wrong side of the road at 65 miles an hour.

The one squad car didn't catch the Goldmans, and the two policemen radioed for help. Five other squads joined the pursuit.

Well into downtown Chicago, one of the pursung squad cars hooked its bumper onto that of Goldman's the seven-mile chase ended a little later.

Goldman, 33, excitedly hopped out of his car and explained that his wife, Arlene, 32, was expecting a baby.

The policemen were sympathetic. They gave the Goldmans an escort to their destination, Wesley Memorial hospital. Mrs. Goldman gave birth to a seven-pound daughter a few minutes after they arrived.

Then they gave Goldman, a salesman, tickets charging him with speeding, reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident (the bumper-hooking).

Ott To Pilot Oakland Team In California

Former Giants' Star To Succeed Dressen

By JACK HAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP)—Mel Ott, the all-time home run king of the National League, returned to baseball today as manager of the Oakland Club of the Pacific Coast League.

MEL OTT

Clarence (Brick) Laws, Oakland president, signed Ott to a two-year contract at an undisclosed salary. The former New York Giants star outfielder and manager succeeds Chuck Dressen, recently named Brooklyn skipper.

The news about Ott overshadowed other developments at the baseball winter meeting as the minor leagues polished off their draft in two long sessions. Tomorrow morning the minors get down to even more serious business to discuss the bonus rule, high school rule and radio and television.

There wasn't a baseball man in the house who wasn't tickled to see Ott make his connection at Oakland where Dressen and Casey Stengel were so successful.

With Ott at Oakland, Joe Gordon at Sacramento and Rogers Hornsby at Seattle, Coast League fans will have an All-Star deleration of new managers. Perhaps it makes that dream of a third major league a little closer.

Ott, a Giant for 25 years, departed quietly at the end of the 1950 season. Since he reported to John McGraw in 1926, a 16-year-old kid from Louisiana with a straw suitcase, he had been connected with the New York club as player, manager or scout.

"Ottie," as he is affectionately known, succeeded Bill Terry as Giant manager in 1942 and served until mid-summer of 1948 when Leo Durocher moved over from Brooklyn in a startling move.

Since he was relieved as manager, Ott has assisted Carl Hubbell in the Giant farm system.

The minor league draft was nearly over. After a spending spree yesterday by higher class leagues, the lower leagues slumped way off today.

The minors selected a total of 148 players for $335,900. Last year 222 players were called up for $449,050.

The obvious great decline by the lower leagues, which depend heavily on teen-age players, was because of the war scare.

Class B leagues picked 61 players and two umpires today for $56,000. The Class C circuits drafted only 22 men for $8,400.

Dempsey Urges Louis To Quit

Says Joe Has Lost His Punch, Timing

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 5 (AP)—Jack Dempsey said today Joe Louis ought to quit the ring "before he gets hurt and finds a permanent address on Queer St."

The former heavyweight champion, here to referee a pro wrestling bout Friday night, told an interviewer:

"I know how Louis feels. His coordination is gone. He sees an opening, and nothing happens.

"He has lost his punch and timing and his ability to think in the ring.

"He's a lot farther over the hill than I was when I hung up the gloves in 1927."

Dempsey recalled that he "started to slip" four years before he quit after losing to Gene Tunney.

"It was the summer of 1923 when I was training to fight Tommy Gibbons in Shelby, Mont.", he said.

"A second-rater by name of Jack Burke hit me with a right-hand punch. He was using the big gloves, yet the punch stung and shook me up, I'd said to myself, 'I'll knock out the bum for that.'

"But I couldn't knock him out. The next day a third-rater tagged me with a left hook and it made me mad. I didn't get into good condition until four days before the Gibbons fight."

Don Richmond Wins Jnts Batting Crown

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (INS)—Don Richmond, slugging third baseman of the Rochester Red Wings, was the official International League batting champion for 1950.

Richmond won the crown with a mark of .333. He appeared in 140 games and got 191 hits in 573 trips to the plate.

Richmond, who will be trying for a position with the St. Louis Cardinals this spring, also scored the most runs (126), made the most hits and led in total bases (298).

Cubs Get Farm

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP)—Greensboro, N. C., of the Class B Carolina League has joined the Chicago Cubs minor league system.

This was announced by Jack Sheehan, director of the Cub farm system.

Coach Kenneth Babcock's quint will play host to Gallaudet College, Washington D. C., on Saturday night.

Eight Of 13 NFL Teams To Finish Season In Black

Playoffs May Decide Both Division Races

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5 (AP)—A jovial, Bert Bell asserted today that this has been "the greatest season in National Football League history."

The rotund $30,000-a-year professional football czar, making no secret of his joy over the probability both NFL divisions may wind up in ties, called attention to the closeness of the race, the balance of the teams and the coins jingling in the pockets of the clubowners.

This season marks the first since the end of a bitter, four-year war between pro football leagues, a war that swelled salaries and bonuses for football players, and brought financial headaches for clubowners.

Peace Now Reigns

No wall is peaceful in the professional football world. The All-America Conference is no more and the NFL has been expanded from 10 to 13 teams.

An NFL spokesman who declined use of his name, said at least eight teams will wind up the 1950 season in the black and that only three will lose money. Two others—the New York Giants and San Francisco 49ers—will just about break even.

This, the spokesman said, is in sharp contrast to recent seasons when nearly all clubs in both leagues suffered heavy financial losses.

The spokesman named the 1950 money losers as the New York Yanks, the Baltimore Colts and the Los Angeles Rams.

Los Angeles, which already has clinched at least a tie for the National Conference title, however, will not lose much, he said. A television contract covers most of the Rams' losses.

This means that eight teams wound up on the profit side of the ledger. The spokesman would not say, however, how much money these teams made. They are Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington, Cleveland, Detroit, Green Bay and both Chicago teams, the Cardinals and Bears.

Two Ties Possible

The Bears, if they defeat Detroit Sunday, will tie Los Angeles for the National Conference title and a playoff game at Los Angeles would be necessary.

In the American Conference, the Cleveland Browns and New York Giants are tied for first place. Victories Sunday would put the Browns and Giants into a playoff game at Cleveland on Dec. 17.

Cleveland meets Washington, which it defeated 20-14 earlier in the season, and the Giants play Philadelphia, which it beat 7-3 two weeks ago, in the big American Conference games Sunday.

And playoffs are money in the bank for the teams.

Allegany County Deer Kill Is 93 For 1st Two Days

George Williams Bags 14-Point, 210 Pounder

Forty-seven deer were reported killed in Allegany county yesterday on the second day of Maryland's six-day open season.

The two-day bag now stands at ninety-three.

Graydon Dunlap reported that 17 animals were checked at Shipway's Inn, M. R. Lewis of Lewis' Store, Oldtown, said there were 17 also checked there. Thirteen were inspected at the LaVale Barracks of the Maryland State Police.

The biggest deer of the season brought down in Allegany county was a 14-point, 210-pounder, bagged by George Williams, of 145 Thomas Street. He made the kill on Green Ridge.

The first woman hunter to score in the county was Mrs. Olive Long who shot an eight-point, 154 pounder on the Long farm at Oldtown.

Thirty-six of the 47 reported slain yesterday were killed by residents of Allegany county.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, reported that the first day's kill in Garrett county was 92.

Many hunters were scared off by the snowstorm in Garrett county last week and as a result cancelled their hotel reservations there.

"The weather is not half as bad as reported, "Minke declared. "It's not cold and the deepest snow is secen or eight inches and is easy to walk through."

Ideal weather also prevailed yesterday in Allegany county. Here's a list of hunters who killed deer in Allegany county yesterday:

Pros Meet 29th Time Drew More As Amateur

Confused Over Awards Ruling Discriminates

By C. V. BURNS

Wheeling and Cumberland, red hot rivals in pro basketball since the 1946-47 season, will be tangling for the 29th time in five years when they come to grips in an All-American League contest here Sunday night.

Four years ago the West Virginia team was the Valans while Cumberland was the Amvets. In 1947-48 it was the Cumberland Dukes versus Wheeling's Puritans. For the past two years the Dukes have been playing the Wheeling Blues.

In one of the games played by the teams last season a total of 218 points was scored with Cumberland winning, 112 to 106. In other wild contests the Blues won 116-73 and the Dukes were victorious 103-80.

Cumberland won the title last season by defeating the Blues in three out of five contests after splitting even in six games during the regular campaign.

Over a 4-year span Wheeling holds a 15-13 edge in victories. Here's how Cumberland has fared against Wheeling over a 4-year period:

	W.	L.
1946-47	1	4
1947-48	2	4
1948-49	4	5
1949-50	6	5

In marking up his 14th straight pro victory over Rudy Williams at McKeesport, Pa., Monday night, Randall "Skeets" Starkey, the Wiley Ford light-heavy, boxed before only 767 paying patrons.

Lee Sala scored a K. O. on the same card.

When "Skeets" was an amateur he showed his wares here seven times before crowds larger than that. He boxed here before crowds of 1,158, 1,037, 866, 860, 833, 818 and 773.

In his only pro fight here last April the paid attendance was 779.

But they were the good old days!

"Skeets" is gradually moving into the heavyweight class. He scaled 171 for the McKeesport match and when he passes the 175 pound mark he becomes a heavy.

Bob Baker 22-year-old Pittsburgh slugger, who notched his 18th straight win as a professional at Cleveland on Monday night, showed here as an amateur just two years ago last month.

Cumberland fans saw little of Baker because Bob lowered the boom on his opponent in exactly one minute 57 seconds.

William Lindsay of Ridgeley says we blundered in this column last Friday when we failed to include his brother (Paul Lindsay) as the winner of the K. of C. Player-of-the-Year football award in 1949.

"In 1948 Ridgeley has Paul Lindsay and Leo Day which is correct in your column," Bill writes, "but in 1949 Ridgeley had two which was Gene Krampf and Paul Lindsay which won the Player-of-the-Year Award and not Lynn Beightol which you say.

●—●—●

"The reason I know this is (1) I am his brother, and (2) the K. of C. sent the watch to the Wilson Hardware to be engraved and then they sent it to Ridgeley to Morgan's Engraving School which I am a student there.

"I know Ridgeley isn't such a big place but I would like to see everybody give them an even break and give them what they got coming and also deserve.

"If you look in the records I think you will see that I am correct on the K. of C. awards and last year on the "Player-of-the-Year Award."

●—●—●

For the moment this letter really had the writer stumped. So we looked back the files and discovered that William Lindsay has the K. of C. football and basketball awards confused.

Paul Lindsay failed to win the Player-of-the-Week or the Player-of-the-Year award for football in 1949 but Lynn Beightol copped both, as we stated last Friday. For further information see the Cumberland News of December 23, 1949. Coach "Horse" Lough is shown presenting the gold wrist watch to Beightol with Jack O'Rourke, K. of C. grand knight, looking on.

If William Lindsay will look in the issue of March 13, 1950, he will find an 8-column headline story about his brother winning the K. of C. 11th annual Sportsmanship Award for basketball. Gene Krampf was the second Ridgeley nominee. Others were: Morton and Lewis, AHS; Connolly and Tom Mulaney, LaSalle, and Hicks and Manges, Fort Hill.

For William Lindsay's information here's a list of K. of C. Sportsmanship Award winners:

1940 — Tommy Mont. 1941—Francis Shaffer. 1942 — Paul Whitford. 1943 — Robert Stakem. 1944—Donald Whiteman. 1945—Edward Gunning. 1946 — James Radcliffe. 1947—Milford Dean. 1948 — William Brehany. 1949—John Vernall. 1950—Paul Lindsay.

Joe Reardon, director of the Phillies' farm clubs, stresses a very important point when he says that the rule which prohibits scouts for professional baseball, minor or major, from approaching a high school player — directly or indirectly—until the day following his graduation, is objectionable because it discriminates against baseball while not binding any other sport.

Spokesmen for other sports, professional or college, may approach the youngster even while he is in school and talk terms with him while those in baseball must sit on the sidelines.

Reardon feels that baseball men should be able to contact the high school student, talk terms with him and sign him following his graduation.

The statement made by Reardon should be of interest to local readers because this very thing is happening in Cumberland.

Several years ago a Boston Braves' scout got into a jam here for speaking to a local high school baseball pitcher while the latter was warming up before a game. Prof. Porter of the National High School Federation, Chicago, and "Happy" Chandler, baseball commissioner, entered the picture and immediately a mole hill grew to a mountain. Fortunately, the scout got by with a reprimand from the commissioner.

Yet, a college plucks an outstanding local athlete seven months before the boy's graduation date, gives him a look-see several hundred miles from his home base and no rumpus is kicked up over this.

Personally, we don't think there is any harm done but why should the line be drawn on one sport and not the other?

We hope Mr. Reardon keeps punching because he's got something there.

Bob Gain To Play

MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 5 (AP)—Bob Gain, a big tackle of Kentucky's Sugar Bowl bound Wildcats, accepted an invitation today to play in the Senior Bowl Game here Jan. 6.

He was the third southern player to be selected for the classic. Kyle Rote and John Champion, Southern Methodist backfield stars, are the others.

Little League May Be Formed At Frostburg

Carpenti And Hoey Speak At Meeting

FROSTBURG, Dec. 5 — At a meeting held Monday evening at Firemen's Hall, Trial Magistrate Peter J. Carpenti and Edmund F. Hoey, Cumberland Recreation Department director, spoke on "Little League Baseball." The organization and operation of such a league was explained to representatives of the several organizations attending.

A sound movie entitled "Little League World Series" was shown. This movie was of the championship game, held at Williamsport, Pa. last fall, and it was most interesting to see the almost professional manner in which the nine to twelve year olds played ball.

Walter E. Mackay, one of the committee appointed by the Rotary Club to sponsor the meeting, presided, and announced that another meeting, open to the general public and also the boys of eligible age—from 9 to 12 years of age, will be held on January 8th. All organizations interested in the forming of such a summer recreational program in Frostburg are asked to be present at this meeting.

12,000 Fans See Champion Retain Title In Ohio Bout

Vicious Right To Jaw Ends Go In Which Ez Wins Every Round

CINCINNATI, Dec. 5 (INS) — Ezzard Charles, clipped of his mustache by the Cincinnati Boxing Commission, did some trimming of his own tonight on the features of Nick Barone to retain the heavyweight championship with an eleventh round knockout.

A vicious right hand smash to the jaw floored Barone for the full count. It was the first time he was knocked out in his boxing career.

Referee Tony Warndorf raised Charles' hand at 2:06 of the eleventh round.

The 24-year-old challenger was battered, bloody and reeling like a broken bird at the finish of the abbreviated 15-round right.

This was Charles' first appearance before the home folks of Cincinnati as the ruler of the heavyweight throne and his fifth title defense.

Boxing historians recalled that the bout was Ohio's first for the heavyweight championship since Max Schmelling knocked out Young Stribling in Cleveland in 1931. The old timers hesitated to say, however, that boxing had shown any improvement or even held its former status.

Barone gave the 29-year-old heavyweight king nothing more than a gymnasium workout and the 12,000 fans little opportunity to see the merits of their champion. Charles won every round.

He slammed his human punching bag around the ring until the sawdust and feathers were about to come out of Barone's ears.

The slender 185-pound conqueror of Joe Louis whacked his opponent so often that Barone's nose seemed to take a right turn at the bridge. This led to some confusion for Barone's beak pointed west while his eyes looked south at Charles.

787 Deer Killed In West Virginia 1st Day Of Season

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 5 (AP)—A total of 787 deer were killed legally in West Virginia yesterday, opening day of the 12-day 1950 season, the Conservation Commission reported.

The total compared with 1,817 killed the first day of the 1949 season.

Unfavorable weather conditions, including packed snow and high water, caused the sharp drop in the kill, commission specialists said.

Illegal kills reported totaled 22, as against 25 for the first day last year.

Legal kills by counties:

Barbour 37, Berkeley 16, Braxton 14, Cooper's Rock State Forest 10, Doddridge 30, Fayette 2, Grant 38, Greenbrier 9, Hampshire 44, Hancock 4, Hardy 41, Harrison 61, Lewis 41, Logan 4, McDowell 8, Marion 41, Mercer 1, Mineral 36, Mingo 1, Monongalia 44, Monroe 9, Morgan 8, Nicholas 12, Pendleton 10, Pocahontas 13, Preston 41, Raleigh 0, Randolph 36, Seneca State Forest 8, Taylor 14, Tucker 53, Tyler 23, Upshur 18, Webster 17, Wetzel 12, and Wyoming 34.

Janowicz Earns Heisman Trophy

Buckeye Back Cops 16th Annual Award

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(INS)—Vic Janowicz, All-American back from Ohio State University, was named today as winner of the 16th annual Heisman trophy, as the outstanding college football player in the United States for 1950.

Vic Janowicz

The 20-year-old senior, who alternated between left-halfback and quarterback on offense and safety for defense, received a total of 633 votes from the nation's sports writers and broadcasters.

He won by a wide margin over Kyle Rote of Southern Methodist, who got 280 votes. Pennsylvania's Reds Bagnell was third with 231 votes.

Janowicz led the Western Conference in scoring, with 48 points and he was top man in total offense with 703 yards.

The 5-9, 182-pound Buckeye back led his team in total minutes played during the 1950 season, seeing action in all nine games for a total of 277.5 minutes.

Janowicz is the first Ohio Stater to win the coveted award since 1944. In that year Les Horvath of the Buckeyes was the winner.

Janowicz ranked first in the poll in the east, midwest and far west and second in the south and third in the southwest.

Others to make the first eight in the national balloting were Vito Parilli, Kentucky (214); Bob Reynolds, Nebraska (174); Bob Williams, Notre Dame (159); Leon Heath, Oklahoma (125) and Dan Foldberg, Army (103).

Janowicz will be awarded the trophy, given each year by New York's Downtown Athletic Club on Tuesday evening, Dec. 12.

Seebit Wins Miami Sixth

Defeats Sedgeview By Three Lengths

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP)—Jake Freedman's Seebit, launching his winter campaign after a successful season in New York, proved best of the seven sprinters that clashed in the featured sixth event today. Though carried extremely wide on the sharp stretch turn, the son of Wait O'Bit came on with a fine rally to score by three lengths under Al Schmidl. He paid $9.30 straight and covered the six furlongs in the good time of 1:11 1-5.

Mrs. J. Kelley's Sedgeview, second to Hilda early in the meeting, was runnerup to Seebit, finishing a length before Savoy Stable's Warmonger, the favorite on which Joe Culmone was riding his sixth straight losing mount of the afternoon.

Culmone, the nation's leading rider, broke Warmonger forwardly and challenged for the lead to the turn, but the colt flattened out badly when put to pressure. This was Warmonger's first setback in his last four starts.

A crowd of 7,117 watched the sport under delightfully sunny conditions. However the backers of Culmone's mounts were sorely disappointed by the Italian's inability to land a winner through the feature. He had mounts in the last two races, however. Culmone clicked with only one of his five mounts on Monday. Culmone, with 361 winners to his credit, is trying to crack the record of 388 winners set by Walter Miller in 1906.

Culmone scored with his last mount of the day, Kay Gibson in the eighth, paying $7.40, $4.70 and $3.50.

Housing Group To Study Latest Site Suggestions

Board Holds Regular Session Today

Cumberland's Housing Authority will meet at 3 p. m. today, to consider progress in plans for the local public housing development projects and to consider suggestions on site locations of a 25-unit project for colored residents.

The board meets in its offices in the Clark-Keating Building.

Two sites for the colored housing project slated here were proposed by the Cumberland Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People at a meeting at the NAACP hall, 119 South Lee Street, Monday night.

The Cumberland Housing Authority has had under study two locations—Thomas Street and McNamee's Hill, but has made no recommendation to the Mayor and City Council. The housing project would provide low-rent quarters for 25 families here and will cost $250,000.

John Wormack, president of the local branch, said his group favored a location on Frederick Street. The second choice would be on McNamee's Hill.

Wormack stated yesterday morning:

"We deplore the attitude shown by the residents of the possible sites chosen by the Housing Authority. We feel that they were unjustified in their hasty criticism and objection.

"Inasmuch as the selection of a site for the proposed homes involves a great deal of study and careful planning, and since the Housing Authority was invested with that power, we feel that their choice should be final, subject to the approval of the Public Housing Authority and Mayor and Council.

"The group unanimously approved a possible site somewhere on Frederick Street. As second choice the group favored a location on McNamee's Hill."

Broken Gas Line Found At Glicksman Home

A broken gas line was found Monday outside the Bowling Green home destroyed by an explosion and fire that sent four persons to Memorial Hospital over the weekend.

Carl C. Robbins, district manager of the gas firm, said investigators discovered a broken service line outside the basement wall, about two feet away from the ruined one and one-half story house of Sol C. Glicksman, 38, of 555 McMullen Highway.

No other details were divulged pending receipt of a report to the Pittsburgh office. The cause of fire in the kitchen before the blast went unexplained, but Robbins said the probe was completed yesterday.

Still in critical condition as a result of the explosion-fire is Mrs. Emma Scotti, 40, of LaVale, who was visiting the Glicksmans. Reported "fair" last night were Glicksman, his wife, 35, and their eight-year-old son, Ronald. All suffered second and third degree burns.

William P. Davis Is Wounded In Korea

HM 3-c William P. Davis, 20, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Davis, 142 Center Street, Frostburg, is another Allegany County casualty of the Korean war.

He was wounded in action November 24 while serving with the First Marine Division near the Manchurian border, according to word received by his parents.

Davis wrote home November 20 and said United Nations troops had fur-lined clothing. However, he emphasized that it was still difficult to keep warm in 10-degree below zero weather.

The young sailor mentioned that he had been recommended for the Silver Star in regard to caring for wounded Marines.

A graduate of LaSalle High School here, Davis enlisted in the Navy during July, 1948, and received boot training at Great Lakes Naval Station, Ill. He was attached to a Navy hospital staff in Annapolis before being assigned to overseas duty. He left this country August 14.

Santa Claus Is To Make Airplane Jump For SA Fund

Santa Claus will discard his conventional reindeer-powered sleigh for an engine-drawn airplane to make a pre-Christmas flight from the North Pole to Cumberland.

The aim of his trip here will be to stimulate interest in the Christmas fund collections of the Salvation Army at the familiar red kettles on Baltimore Street.

Clubs participating in the event are the Lions, Optimist, Kiwanis, Exchange, Rotary and Junior Association of Commerce.

They have been given one day each Christmas season for the past three years to assist the Salvation Army, and have raised as high as $1,300 in ten hours.

Santa will parachute into the city, then lead a procession of children accompanied by a band to downtown Cumberland.

All this will happen Saturday, December 16, when the city's six service clubs will man the kettles in an effort to swell the Salvation Army's Yule finances.

The parachutist-Santa will be Dick Hockman, of Winchester, Va., who appeared in several air shows here in the past few years.

The idea behind the visit is to provide an attraction to the kettle fund drive. This year, aided by good weather, charitable shoppers and super salesmanship on the part of the service club members, it is hoped a goal of $2,000 will be reached.

Lewis J. Ort, chairman of the service clubs Christmas fund committee, pointed out that the Salvation Army's finances for local yule activities are depleted.

It is therefore imperative that at least $2,000 be collected at the kettles on December 16, he concluded.

MAKE MERRY WITH CHRISTMAS PAINT BRUSH

TRANSFORMAGIC . . . The inexpensive doll crib and high chair above have been decorated at home with simple brush strokes in gay color, for a merrier Christmas.

BASIC DESIGNS . . . These are the basic brush-strokes developed by Peter Hunt.

AP Newsfeatures

It's fun to paint a merry Christmas, says Peter Hunt, noted Provincetown, Mass., artist.

Inexpensive store-bought or home-made toys may be transformed by the application of a little paint and imagination. Holiday decorations may be made by any amateur from odds and ends lying around the attic—pieces of plywood, discarded items of furniture or what-have-you.

Mr. Hunt has worked out a series of ideas for "transformagic" which he has put together in a booklet. In it are directions for many things which can be made at home for gay and inexpensive Christmas gifts. Says Mr. Hunt:

"Make merry with the paint brush and you will be surprised at the decorations and gifts you can create from outmoded furniture, old wooden boxes, dime-store objects and raw materials like old boards and plywood . . . You don't have to be a trained artist to make ornamental candlesticks from the legs of a broken-down table or a miniature peasant village from chunks of wood."

These fun-to-do decorations are easy to accomplish by means of a few simple brush-strokes illustrated and explained in the new booklet, available at paint stores. With step-by-step applications of this "teardrop" stroke, straight or curved, you can develop designs ranging from simple borders to flowers, wreaths, hearts, whimsical angels or whatever your fancy dictates.

Cumberland's Advantages Cited For Locating Army Laboratory

Believe City Still Has Chance For Depot

The advantages of Cumberland as a site for the erection of an $11,000,000 Army Quartermaster Corp laboratory were explained Monday to federal officials in Washington by a local group.

Cumberland remains one of 11 cities still being considered. There were over 280 cities which sought the laboratory.

The local representatives urged that top consideration be given to placing the laboratory in an area with surplus labor rather than in one where there is a manpower shortage.

According to David Kauffman, chairman of the steering committee of Economic Development for Allegany County, favorable comment on this proposal was made by Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, Assistant Secretary of Defense in charge of manpower coordination, and Edward Keenan, deputy director of the Bureau of Employment Security for the Department of Labor. They said the suggestion would be advanced at an inter-departmental meeting of manpower officials today.

In Optimistic Mood

Kauffman said the local delegation returned to Cumberland in an "optimistic mood," as a result of the conferences arranged by Rep. J Glenn Beall and Grafton Brown, state veterans' representative.

The site selection committee of the Research and Development Board of the Department of Defense, reported that of the original 280 communities, 38 were found to meet minimum requirements.

The 38 figure was reduced to 11 and Cumberland remains on the list but not in a preferential position because of lack of government-owned land, a proposal criteria; the lack of Army barracks to house personnell; the lack of research institutions and universities immediately at hand for experimental and educational purposes; the lack of a steam plant at the site, and other reasons.

"Eventual decision of the plant site will be made by Secretary of Defense Marshall on or about December 31 on the basis of recommendations made by the committee," Kauffman stated.

Seek New Policy

"The principal purpose of the local delegation's conferences with other government officials was to attempt to have a policy enunciated which would give preferential consideration to 'E' areas, or areas with high labor surplus," Kauffman declared. (An 'E' era is one with 12 or more per cent of the labor force unemployed. The Cumberland area was last classified at 17 per cent.)

"In a statement it was pointed out," Kauffman continued, "that the Korean crisis has made it imperative to place military installations in areas of manpower surplus, and not in ones of manpower shortages. 'E' areas would be natural sites under such a policy.

"Such a step would help the economy of 'E' areas while an opposite policy would only compound the manpower problem.

"The suggestion which the local group seeks to have made part of governmental policy as a directive is in line with previous directives of President Truman and Presidential Assistant John R. Steelman."

Attending the conference, besides Kauffman, were City Attorney W. Earle Cobey, County Commissioner James Holmes, Earl Chaney, of the Allegany County Industrial Promotion Committee and the Cumberland Industrial Promotion Company; C. E. Stutzman, AFL official representing the Western Maryland Full Employment Committee; and I. Alvin Pasareu, director of the Maryland State Planning Commission.

Kauffman stated the proposed laboratory would employ about 750 persons with 250 of them being civilians. No appropriation has been made by Congress for the project.

SILVER BADGE WINNER — Marine Private First Class Alex M. Neff, 11 North Lee Street, this city, recently received the silver badge of Marine Marksman and a promotion to his present rank during training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C. During basic training, Neff became well versed in military subjects such as first aid, field hygiene and sanitation, field tactics and precision drill. He volunteered for enlistment in the Marine Corps in August.

Local Red Cross Office Plans 1951 Campaign

Plans are soon to be made for the 1951 Red Cross Fund Campaign in Allegany County, according to Mrs. Lee Witherup, head of the local Red Cross office.

Mrs. Witherup said that the plans will be based on Allegany County's quota of the national goal which General George C. Marshall, Red Cross president, recently established as $85,000,000.

The fund campaign will be held March 1-31, with Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff as National Fund Chairman.

The nation's mounting military strength is creating sharply increased demands on the Red Cross, Mrs. Witherup related. Civil defense commitments require the organization to train 20,000,000 persons in first aid; instruct hundreds of thousands in home nursing and as nurses aides; recruit millions of blood donors; and prepare for mass feeding, clothing, and shelter in case of major disaster or national emergency.

Allegany County has accepted its responsibility in the national program and a chairman for the county will soon be appointed, she added.

Goes Deer Hunting, Finds Yellow Balloon

While deer hunting Monday in the Fort Ashby, Short Gap, W. Va. area, Dr. C. N. Foose, Jr., local veternarian, made an unusual discovery.

Dr. Foose found a yellow balloon which had drifted from Augusta, Ga. Attached to the balloon, which was still partially inflated, was a card to be mailed back to Augusta.

The message on the card indicated that the Augusta Herald, a daily newspaper there, had distributed a number of balloons to their news boys for release. The boys whose balloons drifted the farthest, and whose cards are returned are to receive a turkey for Christmas dinner.

Dr. Foose said he has mailed the card and hopes the carrier who released the balloon gets a turkey.

Sgt. Ford's Body Is To Arrive Today

The body of Sgt. Robert Felton Ford, 23, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester G. Ford, 517 Lowell Avenue, will arrive at Hafer Funeral Home, this city, around noon today.

A funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in Trinity Lutheran Church, with Rev. G. A. Wagner, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Sgt. Ford was killed in a wreck of three vehicles near Beaufort, S. C., when a truck rammed headon against an automobile occupied by him and another Marine, Sgt. Donol C. McLane, Jr. Both were stationed at Parris Island Marine Base, S. C.

Authorities said the trucker, Julius Moultrie of Frogmore, S. C., is being held pending the outcome of a coroner's inquest. Sgt. McLane is recovering from injuries received in the crash.

Beaufort County Sheriff J. E. McTeer said Moultrie's truck swung out of a line of traffic on Highway 1 near Beaufort Airport and struck the Marine's car. A second automobile driven by Mrs. James F. Blake, Parris Island, hit the rear of the truck.

Keyser Council Invites Senator To Next Session

Martin To Discuss Affairs December 19

KEYSER, W. Va.—State Senator Clarence Martin, Jr., Martinsburg, will be invited to attend a meeting of the Mayor and Council of Keyser December 19.

The action was taken Tuesday at the regular bi-monthly meeting of the mayor and council. At the last meeting of the body, an invitation was sent to Senator Ralph Beam and John I. Rogers, delegate-elect of the legislature, to meet with council on that date, for the purpose of discussing some of the critical needs of Keyser.

The state legislators will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Church at their home on that date, and the council will be able to discuss with them some vital questions prior to the next meeting of the legislature.

No action was taken at the meeting yesterday on the status of S. L. "Mike" Robinson, auxiliary police officer of Keyser, who allegedly had a fight Sunday with Max Criser, truck driver for the State Road Commission, on West Piedmont Street, during the time the commission workers were removing snow from the street. The matter was not even mentioned. It is understood that it will go before the Civil Service Board of Keyser, where action may be taken.

Tucker Deer Kill Reported Lower

PARSONS, W. Va. — Tucker County, which has led West Virginia for the past few years in deer kills, reported only 54 unofficially for the first day.

The hunters are in the county but refrained from the woods on Monday due to the extremely bad weather. Six inches of new snow fell Sunday evening making the woods more difficult. The snow followed a heavy rain and bent the trees down, making it more hazardous along with the deep snow drifts already in the Canaan Valley section where most of the hunting is done.

Only $238 in licenses was collected up until Saturday and from that time Mrs. Bess Moon Olson, clerk of the county court, issued $300 in licenses and Belmont Cleaver of Davis issued 70 licenses at $25. each. Hunters are registered from Missouri, Tennessee, Michigan, Ohio and Virginia to date.

One hunter, Rex Percy of LeRoy, was arrested Monday afternoon by Conservation Officer Fielding H. Kyer for participating further in a hunt with a gun after he had killed his deer. He pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace O. B. Collins and was fined $100 and costs.

The Fairbanks Morse Company of Cleveland, through its representative, Henry Lofter, has promised delivery within 12 to 14 weeks.

The scales will replace the one removed from in front of the City Building on Washington Street in May when the new bridge was built.

The old scales, stored in the town garage, were considered unfit for further use.

William Mayles, chief of the Potomac Fire Company, requested that town policemen be permitted to drive the fire truck when firemen truck drivers were not available. He was assured of cooperation.

HOW ABOUT THE HUFFY-PUFFY?

In the middle 1800's—the steam railroad locomotive known as the "Huffy-Puffy" was a familiar sight on the few railroads then operating in this area. The "Huffy-Puffy" was the first great steam locomotive in America—comical to look at—funny to see—it blazed the trail of railroad expansion in America.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5—(INS)—I can tell the American producers who have been urging Ingrid Bergman to come to America that she's definitely not coming — at least not right away.

Ingrid Bergman

She plans to star in a picture in France which Roberto Rossellini will direct right after the first of the year.

I believe if Ingrid could be sure that she could come to this country with Rossellini and not cause a big hullabaloo she would accept the offer made her by Howard Hughes because she likes the script of "Strike A Match."

But she will not come to the USA without Roberto and she is nervous about the sort of reception they might receive.

Ruth Hussey will play Jerry Lewis' mother—yes, I said mother in "Junior" and I bet there isn't seven years difference in their ages!

Be that as it may, Ruth really wants to play this part because it is an hilarious comedy about a a woman ex-swimming champ and her skinny, unathletic son — the skinny, unathletic Jerry, of course.

Jerry's sidekick, Dean Martin, is playing Junior's college pal in this movie for Hal Wallis.

It won't start until Ruth finishes a three weeks run on Broadway right after Christmas in "Royal Family Of Broadway."

Tomorrow Shirley Temple's divorce from John Agar becomes final. I suppose Shirley will have to take to cover what with all the telephone calls asking her when she and Charles Black are going to get married.

I, myself, telephoned Shirley and she said:

"It's just the same as it was when I talked to you last. I have no plans. The only thing I am considering at the moment is a trip to New York with my mother and possibly my father, to see the new plays."

I feel sure that Shirley doesn't want to rush and say she's going to get married so close to her divorce. I admire her for it — but I do believe that she and Black, of whom everyone speaks highly, will be married before many moons. When the time comes, however, Shirley will make her own announcement.

Poor Mario Lanza! He had three strikes against him over the weekend. First, the Greater Los Angeles Press Club boys fumed with rage when he failed to appear at their party, believing he had jilted them for a "swank" affair.

Then he was bedded with intestinal flu, the cause of his having to disappoint the newsmen in the first place.

Finally, on Sunday, when his wife was rushed to the hospital where their second child, a little girl, was born — Mario was still too ill to be with her.

Zoo Has Novel Suggestions For Christmas Gifts

CHICAGO—(INS) — The Brookfield Zoo at Chicago has some excellent suggestions for the guy or gal who wants to give someone something "different" in the way of Christmas presents.

All that is needed is the proper amount of money and the ability to show that the "gift" will have a good home. The zoo has a fine stock of unusual items. Here are a few:

For that grouchy boss: A live, fully grown sea lion. (Suggested: Be sure to enclose a case of fish with the gift so the lion won't be hungry while the boss is arranging for a steady supply.) Price $350.

For the neighbor who is always peering over the fence to watch you gardening, or to see what the delivery truck is bringing—a lovely, patterned, long-necked giraffe. Price: $4,500.

For that bully in the office who always wants to fight: A kangaroo sparring partner. Cost: $350.

Or if you want an economical gift for the girl friend: A seriema bird from South America, smaller than a chicken. Cost: $60.

There are other ideal gifts available, too, but those can serve as a starter.

Robert Bean, the zoo spokesman who offered the animals for sale, said "Benny," the sea lion, would make a wonderful playmate for a child, providing the child has a huge swimming pool. "Benny" eats 16 pounds of mackerel daily.

The Ten Best-Adjusted

THE end of the year is within spitting distance and naturally we must all begin to compose our list of "Ten Best." Ten Best Dressed. Ten Least Offensive. Ten Most Photegenic. And so forth.

John Crosby

The most significant of the Ten-Bests this year is being sponsored by "Why," which describes itself as "the magazine of popular psychology" "Why" is delving underneath the bank accounts, the handsome exteriors; "Why" is seeking the "Ten Best Adjusted Americans."

It just goes to show how far the psychiatrists have penetrated into our folklore. The Ten Best lists used to be reserved for handsomely gowned women, best selling novelists. $3,000 - a - week screen - writers. Now the scrolls, the plaques are to be handed out on the basis of our neurosis, which used to be considered a private affair.

"How can 'best-adjusted' be defined?„ asks "Why." "'Why's' definition . . . A man or woman who shown outstandin ability to adjust psychologically to the problems confronting him and who demonstrates a capacity to derive satisfaction and emotional security from his career and personal life."

Considering the fact that 1950 is definitely a year of mass neuroses, the Ten Best-Adjusted ought to be honored in their own country. The trouble with "Why's" list, "suggested," it says here, "by a panel of psychiatrists and psychologists," is that it is composed of those same old names—President Truman, General MacArthur, Jackie Robinson, Grandma Moses, Robert Young, Esther Williams, Arthur Godfrey, Ed Wynn, Albert Einstein, Helen Keller—which have bobbed up on all the other lists.

All of them are famous, all are leaders in their field. But well-adjusted? Adjusted phychologically to the problems confronting them? One of President Truman's chief problems right now is Gen. MacArthur and one of Gen. MacArthur's is President Truman. Neither has shown outstanding ability to adjust himself to the other and it seems to me a mistake to put them back to back on a list of Best-Adjusted.

Jackie Robinson showed increasing maladjustment toward covering hard-hit balls to his right and, in the last third of the season, he had grave difficulty adjusting himself psychologically to hitting the ball at all. Professor Einstein's last public statement contained hardly a hint of emotional or any other form of security. The hydrogen bomb, he declared on Mrs. Roosevelt's television show, threatened, by radioactive poisoning of the atmosphere, to annihilate all life on earth.

• — • — •

That's the trouble with headliners on a list of this sort. The competition is more severe up in the rarified atmosphere of success; the conflicts increase; the emotional security diminishes. For your real well-adjusted man, the editors of "Why" should have prowled around First Avenue. Sam, the delicatessan man, over there seems to have everything he wants, psychologically, emotionally, physically. He wishes he had more room in the store for a larger deep-freeze but that seems a relatively small maladjustment next to those on "Why's" list.

The only one on the "Why" list I'm going to vote for is Esther Williams, a far-sighted girl. She's adjusted herself to living apparently indefinitely under water where all life sprang and where it may all return. Esther is the only one of us who'll feel at home when the time comes.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

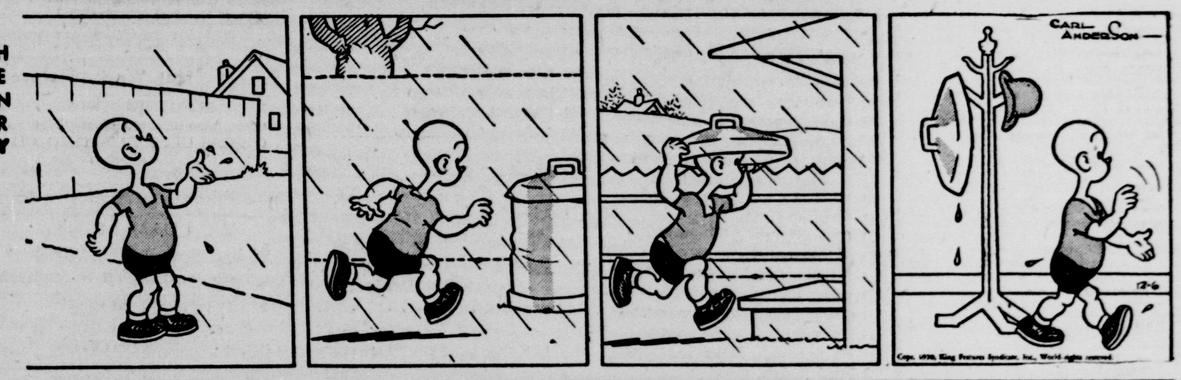

R Y J 'G D F R H Q Q N N W O D W C L W M R D Y, G Q P U R Y M W G U W H O R P W, T E G S W W H G U W H R D Y — L R G G F.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THE LAW EFFECTS INJUSTICE TO NO ONE; AND DOES INJURY TO NO ONE—LAW.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends, neighbors, pallbearers, the minister, Rev. I. S. Long and all those who were so kind during our recent bereavement, the death of our wife and mother, Mrs. Cora C. Wiseman of McCoole. We also wish to thank those who sent flowers and donated their cars for the funeral.
Charles L. Wiseman and Family

We take this means of expressing sincere thanks to those of our friends and neighbors who were so sympathetic and helpful during the illness and following the death of our beloved mother, Mrs. Fanny Belle Lloyd. We are grateful for the many floral tributes and to those who donated motor cars for the funeral and to all others who in any manner assisted us.
Her Children,

MIRROR • OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Can you be too "willing to believe"?

Answer: Certainly. The success of innumerable quacks and pseudo-scientists is due to the inability of most people to face the fact that there are so many problems to which there is no quick or easy answer. In the Middle Ages, even doctors spent much of their time in looking for a "panacea" (cure-all) and only comparatively lately did they admit that mankind's ills have to be conquered one at a time, and that no cure is absolute and final. Beware of the man who promises too much. Doubt is painful, but credulity can be fatal.

Should medical students study people?

Answer: Yes, writes Lester J. Evans in the Journal of Orthopsychiatry. Since the doctor's ultimate success depends on the relationship which he is able to establish with those who come to him for help, his whole education should have living people as its major object. Science courses should be taught against the background of how their results affect human beings, and the medical school faculty should include social workers, psychiatrists, nurses, and public health experts. Doctors do not really treat disease, but sick people.

Can we prove the mind's effect upon the body?

Answer. There are many evidences of it, but one of the most convincing is a fact which in itself seems trival—the fact that "suggestion," if accepted by the patient, will almost invariably cure warts. It has been demonstrated repeatedly that these skin growths can be made to disappear by any treatment (painting them with green ink, for example) if the patient believes it will cure them. But if he is skeptical—or is let in on the secret of what is being done to him—the same treatment will have no effect whatever.

(Copyright, 1950, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Does your personality affect your driving?

Answer: Yes, say Drs. W. A. Tillman and G. E. Hobbs in the American Journal of Psychiatry. Studies of bus drivers, taxi operators and other motorists show that certain types of personality coincide with "accident proneness" and that the same drivers have the highest accident rates over long periods of time. If you are aggressive, impulsive, resentful of authority and generally "maladjusted," you are likely to have more than your share of accidents, while if you are stable, serious and well adjusted, you'll probably have less.

May habitual scratching be neurotic?

Answer: Definitely. Specialists have come to recognize "factitious dermatitis" (inflammation of the skin brought on by scratching) as a symptom of emotional disturbance which can be cured most effectively by helping the patient realize what lies behind it. It may embody the conflict between a desire for self-gratification and the need to punish yourself for indulging in it. Or it may unconsciously express an effort to avoid the temptation to be too attractive to the other sex by spoiling your appearance.

Do insane patients "deteriorate"?

Answer: Evidently not so much as has been supposed. Dr. Edgar A. P. Kellerman tells in the Psychiatric Quarterly of a chronic schizophrenic whose severe and long-standing symptoms made him seem to have deteriorated past hope of recovery, but who showed striking improvement under intensive psychotherapy. And Dr. James M. Mott, Jr., of Topeka (Kansas) State Hospital reports the apparent cure through psychiatric interviews of a 72-year-old woman adjudged "hopelessly insane" in 1941. Lack of doctors is the biggest problem for the insane.

WONDERIN', JES WONDERIN'—WHY?

The House Committee on Un-American Activities has been refused access to the mailing list of the Daily Worker, official Communist party magazine, by the Post Office Department?

And Washington is jes wonderin' why President Truman pointedly left out the name of Dr. Edward Condon . . . The Prez recently appointed a special national advisory committee of scientists . . . They are supposed to guide our general re-armament and atomic research program . . . Dr. Condon, as director of the Bureau of Standards, is the head of our chief scientific department, yet his name was omitted from President Truman's list of scientists . . . How come?

Two years ago Condon was called (in a House Un-American Sub-Committee report) a weak link in our atomic security . . . The report referred to his alleged association with Communists, former Communists and subversives . . . At that time the administration protected him . . . Refused to release a letter, written by J. Edgar Hoover, describing Condon's conduct.

a grotuesque face is ridiculous and even repulsive. So watch the way you roll those eyes! Sit in front of your mirror and hold a conversation with yourself. Check your mouth expressions carefully, too. Mannerisms are easy to acquire and hard to lose, but needless mouth contortions will respond if you accord them some thought and practice.

Hands that behave like the vanes of a windmill will get you attention, too. In fact, you'll be watched with amazement. If in doubt as to what to do with your hands, keep them quiet. Your comportment and walk will get you the right kind of attention at any game . . . all you have to do is be a lovely picture of yourself, no matter what you are doing.

"Goodness! How that song takes me back!"

Stock Market Moves Ahead Following Monday's Tumble

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—In a complete about face, the stock market surged ahead today following Monday's tumble.

Closing prices showed gains running to around $2 a share—and quotations were headed upward at the final bell.

Not all of Monday's losses were recouped but they were sharply reduced.

Turnover amounted to 1,940,000 shares, well below Monday's 2,510,000 but still a good day's business.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained $1.40 at $82.90 a share. This compared with a drop yesterday of $2.20 a share. Rail and industrial stocks accounted for the bulk of the advance while utilities merely inched upward.

Top place on the most active list was taken by Climax Molybdenum, a novel position for this usually inactive issue. The price was up $1.50 a share at $27.

Heavy demand followed news that the company had contracted with the U. S. government for maximum production of its property at Climax, Colo., for five years. In addition the company boosted prices last week. Molybdenum is a hardening and toughening agent used in manufacturing steel products.

Seaboard Air Line, a late starter, came up with a gain of $1.50 at $44 following word of an extra dividend of 50 cents.

Steels were particularly strong. U. S. Steel at $39 was up $1.50, Bethlehem $1.12 at $44.12, and Republic $2 at $40.62.

General Motors gained 75 cents at $45.50, Chrysler $1.12 at $66.37 and Studebaker 62 cents at $28.50.

Abbott To Head Orphans Court

One of the surprises at the Court House yesterday morning came when the three judges of Orphans Court were sworn into office by Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden.

The commissions listed Judge William C. Abbott, of Lonaconing, as chief judge.

Judge J. French VanMeter had been chief judge since his appointment to the post by former Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor. He is a resident of Cresaptown. All of the judges are Republican.

Abbott, a native of Scotland, worked in the coal mines in the Georges Creek region for many years. This is his second term of office as a judge of the Orphans Court. He is over 80 years old, but is very active for his advanced age.

Another oddity was the fact that Sheriff Edward R. Muir was sworn into office for a second term on the 50th anniversary of the swearing-to the same office of his uncle, James Martin, of Lonaconing, in 1900.

Martin was married to the sister of William C. Muir, father of Sheriff Muir.

Besides the sheriff, Edgar M. Lewis was sworn in as chief deputy and William Chappell, George Harris and William "Scotty" Orr were sworn in as deputies.

"The Authority on Authorities"

AS GOOD AS SOLID

SITTING in the position where you play after the dummy, you can sometimes see that its big suit is as good as solid. One of the honors is missing. But, since you don't possess it, you know that either the declarer has it to solidify the suit or else your partner has it, where it will be caught in a finesse. When that is the case, there is no use in trying to head off the suit by eliminating the dummy's only side entry. If you are in the lead on an early trick, your best move in such circumstances is usually to return the only suit in which the dummy is weak, hoping thereby to build one or more tricks in it for your partner before the declarer gets discards.

East and West did some pretty timid work in that auction, when either 4-Spades or 4-Hearts would have been makeable. It happened that South also could have been safe in only four of his suit, though he landed one level higher. He was lucky not to have been doubled and set a trick.

Hating to lead from his tenace honors, West made the risky lead of his lone club, which might have found South with solid trumps that could have been followed by a run of diamonds to discard all major suit losers. East happened to have the A, however, and felt that the fate of the contract depended on what he did after scoring the top trump. Noting the threatening diamond suit, he decided to remove the dummy's only re-entry, the spade A. That was his reason for returning the spade Q, not just because it was his partner's bid suit. But he made the hand a cinch for South, who merely scored trumps, finessed the diamond J and discarded all his major suit losers on the diamonds.

East could have seen easily that the diamonds would set up. If South lacked the Q, a mere singleton would have been enough to win a finesse and romp home. The sole chance to set South before he ran trumps and got discards was to find West in shape to take two heart tricks. So the heart J should have been led to the second trick, ending all argument right there.

What is South's main problem in 6-Hearts after West leads the spade Q? How should he solve it?

Flames Destroy Brake House At Hampshire Mine

Authorities To Launch Probe

A small brake house at the Hampshire Mine of the Campbell Coal Company near Barton was destroyed by flames late yesterday afternoon.

It was the third fire at Hampshire Mine premises in the past five weeks. Two fan houses were destroyed in the other blazes. Last week 2,000 feet of wire was stolen from the property.

Dr. George Campbell, Lonaconing druggist who is president of the Campbell Coal Company, said the sheriff's office had been notified and authorities promised an investigation.

Chief Deputy Edgar Lewis and Deputy William Chappell are expected to visit the scene this morning.

Dr. Campbell said cause of the blaze was not determined. He said an estimate of damage would not be available until he receives a detailed report.

Mrs. Pearl Kantor, daughter of George Crowe, mine foreman, was notified by nearby neighbors of the blaze and summoned the Barton Hose Company.

The building, a frame shanty measuring about 10 by 12 feet, was a mass of flames when firemen arrived.

The fire truck had to be left on the highway about a mile from the mine as it could not negotiate the entrance road. Firemen went to the scene on foot and used fire extinguishers and sand in a futile effort to save the building.

Dr. Campbell said the mine has not been in steady operation for the past two or three months, with only occasional work during that time.

He said a maintenance crew of three or four men worked there yesterday recovering rails and equipment from the mine and replacing wire.

The brake house was used for a short time yesterday morning to run down a small amount of coal to the tipple. It is normally locked when not in use, Dr. Campbell said.

The maintenance crew finished work at 4 p. m., about an hour and a half before the blaze was seen by nearby residents, he added.

The mine is a union operation.

Cemetery Group Formed Locally

Representatives of a majority of the Cumberland cemeteries met at Hillcrest at 7 o'clock last night and formed a Cumberland Cemetery Association, according to George W. Landis, who was elected chairman.

Landis, who is superintendent of Rose Hill Cemetery, said that various mutual problems concerning cemetery operations were discussed last night. Father Ernest, O.F.M. Cap., of Sts. Peter and Paul's Church, was elected assistant chairman. Both terms are for three months.

The new association plans to hold quarterly meetings and additional sessions when it is necessary to consider special problems. Next regular meeting will be in March.

Landis has requested that representatives of cemeteries which had no spokesmen at last night's meeting, contact him about affiliation with the association.

Corriganville Clinic Scheduled Thursday

The Corriganville child hygiene clinic will be held Thursday at 10 a. m. in the Corriganville Fire Hall, with Mrs. Elizabeth Rosenmerkel as the public health nurse in charge.

Date of the clinic has been changed to the first Thursday in alternate months.

Fire Chiefs To Meet At Cresaptown

The Allegany - Garrett County Volunteer Fire Chiefs Association will meet at the Cresaptown Fire Hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

Topics to be discussed will be the state convention to be held here in June and the recent explosion and fire at Bowling Green.

Hold Down Various County Offices

These are some of the persons who either began new terms yesterday or have received new county appointments. At the top is pictured Sheriff Edward R. Muir and his four deputies, who were sworn in for new four-year terms. Sheriff Muir is seated. Standing behind the sheriff, left to right, are Deputies Edgar M. Lewis, William (Scotty) Orr, George Harris and William Chappell. The two one-column pictures at the left are Ernest B. Treat, top, new tax collector for Tax District No. 1, and J. Milton Dick, bottom, who has been appointed clerk of Trial Magistrate's Court. At the lower right are Raymond G. Messmer, this city, named superintendent of Sylvan Retreat and his wife, Mrs. Ellen Messmer, new stewardess there. Muir is the first Allegany County sheriff to succeed himself.

Red Men's Lodge Nominates Officers

Willard E. Miller, 811 Shriver Avenue, last night was nominated to the post of sachem of Tonkaway Lodge 120, Red Men, subject to the December 19 election.

Others nominated from the floor last night:

Ralph Ehrbar, for senior sagamore; Grover Slaven, for junior sagamore; Harry Young, for prophet; R. Leo Reichert, for chief of records; John Wilson, for collector of wampum; Kelly Robison, for keeper of wampum; W. Ewald Ruehl, Joseph Spinetta, for representative to Great Council; C. L. Loy, for special officer.

The lodge also decided last night to get its scholarship committee to contact the local high school principals in an effort to get Cumberland entries in a nation-wide Red Men scholarship essay contest. Five four-year collegiate scholarships will be given away.

Historical Society Receives Valuables

Mrs. Bessy Johnson Coulehan Frey, of Frostburg and New York, has agreed to deposit with the Maryland Historical Society a sword presented by General Washington, and valuable pieces of tableware that were the property of Governor and Mrs. Thomas Johnson, according to the latest issue of Maryland Historical Notes.

Mrs. Frey is a great-great granddaughter of Johnson, Maryland's first state executive, 1776-77, later an associate justice of the United States Supreme Court. Portraits of Governor and Mrs. Johnson previously had been deposited by Mrs. Frey and her mother, Mrs. James Coulehan.

Residents Invited To LaVale Meeting

The Health Department yesterday mailed letters to 64 residents of the Narrows Park section, inviting them to attend a meeting tonight in the LaVale Fire Hall at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, deputy state health officer, said the meeting has been called to discuss sewage disposal problems which affect public health in the area.

Officials expected to attend include J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian; Dr. William Moseley, Mt. Savage, chairman of the Allegany County Sanitary Commission; George Hale, resident maintenance engineer of the State Roads Commission; and representatives of the LaVale Sanitary Commission.

Board Announces Appointments To County Offices

Dick Is Clerk Of Trial Magistrates' Court

Now that appointments to various county offices have been made by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, appointees are looking forward to January 1, 1951, when virtually all of the appointments become effective.

It was not a complete list that was announced yesterday by the commissioners. Naming of a superintendent and stewardess at the county home and infirmary has been delayed and probably will not be announced for several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith presently fill the positions.

Also uncertain is the successor to Herbert Loar, Frostburg, as tax collector for Tax District 2.

Gorman E. Getty, of Lonaconing, was again named attorney to the board; Miss Jeannete Barrett, this city, stenographer in the commissioners' office; Mrs. Mildred Edmunds, Frostburg, stenographer-clerk; Miss Mildred Green, Lonaconing, clerk-typist; Miss Anna Hart, this city, clerk-typist, and Mrs. Isabelle Kerr, this city, personal property clerk.

Ernest B. Treat, this city, was named tax collector for District No. 1 at the Court House. He had been assistant to W. A. Strother, who held the office four years.

William Norwood Is Home From Fighting In Korea

M. Sgt. William L.Norwood, 31, World War II veteran who has been wounded twice in Korea, is home on leave from Fitzsimmons Army Hospital, Denver, Col.

M. Sgt. Norwood had been fighting in Korea since July 28 when he joined Company F, 5th Regiment, First Cavalry Division.

Suffering a concussion as the result of heavy combat in August, Sgt. Norwood was hospitalized briefly in the Army Hospital in Korea.

Soon thereafter he returned to his original outfit, Company F, and on September 14, while fighting in the Pusan area, he received shrapnel wounds which punctured his left lung. One day later, he was flown to an Army hospital in Tokyo.

Describes Korea

After he became well enough to travel without harm, he was flown to Fitzsimmons Army Hospital, making stops at Army hospitals in Honolulu and California.

He expects to be in Cumberland until January 13, when he will return to Fitzsimmons for further treatment.

Speaking of the rough, hill country of Korea, Sgt. Norwood related that it was much more difficult to carry on any kind of campaign than in Europe where he fought during World War II. The rice paddies, he said, made it extremely difficult to traverse the area, and the narrow, primitive roads in Korea made it almost impossible to move heavy equipment.

He also spoke of seeing much Russian equipment being used by the Communists.

Served With Local Unit

During World War II, on D Day, 1944, Sgt. Norwood said he landed on Omaha Beach with Company G, 115th Regiment, 29th Division. Eleven days later, he was captured by the Germans and nine months went by before he was liberated by the Russians at Odessa on the Black Sea.

Discharged from service July, 1945, he worked for awhile as a buffer at the local Celanese plant. During his civilian life, he was very active in Army reserve work.

In February 2, 1948, he enlisted in the Army again, serving as a field sergeant with the Third Cavalry Regiment, at Fort George G. Meade, until he was sent to Korea.

Sgt. Norwood is the son of Mr and Mrs. L. W. Norwood, formerly of Cumberland, now living in Baltimore. He is married to the former Miss Dorothy A. Brockey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Brockey, Zihlman Way, this city.

Envelope System Used In Domestic Social Security

Housewife To Report Every Three Months

The Bureau of Internal Revenue and the Social Security Administration has unwrapped their plan for reporting regular household workers who come under social security on January 1, according to James S. Getty, manager of the local social security office.

A small envelope is being used, Getty said, for sending in the necessary information and tax on the employe's wage. In form and in size, it resembles those in use by private insurance companies, magazine circulation departments, and other commercial firms. It is a one-piece, pre-addressed return envelope, with space on the inner flap for the essential but brief items on the employe and a pocket for transmitting the social security tax.

Richard Stakem, local collector of internal revenue, explained that under the new social security law, household workers who are paid as much as $50 by one employer in the three-month period, January through March (a calendar quarter), and who have worked for that one employer on 24 days or more in that quarter, or the preceding quarter, will have their wages count toward old-age and survivors insurance.

The tax to be remitted in the envelope form will be three per cent of the worker's cash wages for the three-month period. The housewives may deduct one-half of this (one and one-half per cent) from her employes' wages. One and one-half per cent is her share of the tax, Stakem went on.

How System Works

To illustrate how the envelope report system will work, Stakem took the case of a housewife who employs one maid on two days a week during the first three months of the coming year. At any time during April, the housewife, he explained, should fill out the envelope form which she will receive in March.

The inner flap of the envelope will be already imprinted with the employer's name and address. On one line she will enter the worker's name and social security number, together with the total amount of cash wages paid during the three months.

If the wages were $10 per week, and since there are 13 weeks in the three-month period, the total would be $130. The three per cent social security tax would amount to $3.90. One-half of this ($1.95) is the worker's share. The employer will match this amount.

The total tax of $3.90 is entered on the last line of the form. A check or money order in that amount is put in the pocket of the envelope. With the envelope sealed, stamped, and dropped in the mailbox, the housewife's social security report work is completed until July. No other records will be required.

"We are confident that as the household employer and her worker come to realize the mutual advantages of a more secure future for the employe, they will cooperate to make this simple procedure work," Stakem declared.

He feels that it will promote a more stable and lasting employer-employe relationship, and believes that this provision of the new social security for the protection of the housemaid, the cook, the hired man, and the laundress is an important

Deer Hunter Wounded By Stray Bullet

Wise Reported In Critical Condition

A Pasadena, Md., deer hunter was reported in critical condition last night in Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland, following a hunting accident on Piney Mountain near Sang Run.

Deputy Sheriff Paul W. Fisher of Garrett County identified the man as William Council Wise, 47.

Wise was hunting with his son-in-law when a bullet fired by Robert Sisler, 17, of Accident, ricocheted from a rock and struck the Pasadena man in the back.

Hospital attaches said Wise was admitted yesterday afternoon and underwent surgery last night.

Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, staff physician, said although an operation was performed the bullet has not been removed and that possible paralysis is feared. Wise received a blood transfusion and plasma, the doctor stated.

Regional Game Warden Joseph A. Minke noted last night that there has never been a fatal hunting accident in Maryland during deer season, although there have been some fatal shootings during upland game seasons.

Hunter Rescued

Meanwhile, Deputy Sheriff Fisher said a deer hunter was rescued yesterday after being lost in a mountainous section for a day and a night.

Jack Mayles, 26-year-old Baltimorean, was found by a search party shortly before noon on a trail to Friendsville, 25 miles north of Oakland. He was cold and hungry but apparently well.

The rescue group, organized by Deputy Sheriff Fisher, took him into Friendsville for first aid, then headed for Oakland.

The sheriff's office said four other members of Mayles's party had made their way back to Oakland Monday and reported him missing. They said he had become lost while they were hunting in the Snaggy Mountain section of Swallow Falls State Park, some 12 miles north of Oakland.

Found Before Noon

The search expedition set out at 3 p. m. but returned at dark with no trace of Mayles. It took up the hunt again yesterday and found him about 11 a. m.

Word from the rescuers was that Mayles seemed to have suffered no ill effects from his exposure to the 18-20-degree temperatures. They said he had stripped some of his clothing to kindle a fire.

Candidates File Expense Reports

Register of Wills A. Charles Stewart, Republican, unopposed for re-election, filed a report which showed that his expenses in the campaign amounted to $75.

French Movie Star Aids National Guard's Drive

A large photo enlargement of Suzanne Dalbert, French movie star now in the United States, was presented to company commanders of the First Battalion, 115th Infantry Regiment, Maryland National Guard, in a ceremony last night at the State Armory as the Guard began its "breakthrough" recruiting campaign.

The presentation was made by John Manuel, manager of the Strand Theatre, to Capt. Gerald Reeves, Frostburg, commander of Company D; Capt. William E. Fogel, commander of Company C, Cumberland; and First Lt. John Hensel, commander of Headquarters Company, First Battalion.

Miss Dalbert, who stars in the movie "Breakthrough," was chosen by the First Battalion as "The Girl Who Puts The Whammo In Our Ammo."

When notified of her selection, the French star sent a large photo enlargement of herself to the local battalion inscribed to them, wishing them good luck in their "Breakthrough" drive for new members.

The drive was named after a citation received by the First Battalion in July, 1946, commending them for their work in the St. Lo breakthrough.

The movie in which Miss Dalbert stars concerns the Normandy and St. Lo. campaigns, in which a number of local Guardsmen took part. The battalion won the Croix de Guerre with Silver Star.

During the run of the movie "Breakthrough," a recruiting booth manned by Guardsmen will be set up at the Strand to receive applications and give information on Guard enlistments.

All young men between 18 and 35 are eligible to join the Guard whether or not they are veterans. Young men of 17 may join with the consent of one parent.

Registrations will be accepted at the booth in the theatre starting Friday or at the Armory each Tuesday and Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m.

Choral Groups To Sing Carols At Station During Holidays

A Christmas program of carol singing by various local groups is being planned for each evening during the week preceding Christmas at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's Queen City Station, according to W. G. Watson, president of the men's division of the Cooperative Traffic Program.

Mrs. Thomas Shaffer, president of the women's division of the CTP, relates that the a cappella Glee Club from Fort Hill High School will sing on Tuesday evening, December 19.

Fort Hill's choral group will be featured Wednesday evening of the same week.

Other groups participating evenings during the program will be from Girls Central High School, Allegany High School, Ursuline High School, SS. Peter and Paul's School, St. Mary's School, and the Girls Scouts.

Mrs. Shaffer said the groups will sing during the time when most of the main passenger trains are arriving and departing at Queen City Station. That will be for about a two-hour period each evening beginning at 8 o'clock.

If weather conditions permit, the singing will be done outdoors, but it will be carried on inside the depot if bad weather persists.

The men's division will decorate the station with holly and lights, wreaths have been hung on the doors, and a large tree has been set up on the porch at the station.

The decoration work will begin Monday, December 18.
